69th Congress Dies As It Lived, Growling and Grumbling To End

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4—The [illegible] congress, which came into power on the crest of the Harding landslide of '24, [illegible] to its constitutional [illegible] today.

[illegible] to die quietly, as befits [illegible] wearied of labor, but grumbled to the end—inconsistent with the [illegible] years of its life.

[illegible] ninth came into being [illegible] the Coolidge congress," [illegible] legislative arm furnished [illegible] for his first elective [illegible] with its large Republican majorities it was looked to, [illegible] on the Coolidge program.

Yet it immediately belied its label as "the Coolidge congress" by administering to the president one of the severest defeats of his administration—the refusal to confirm Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general. Then, having been blooded, it proceeded to compile a record of defiance of the White House that has been equalled but by few congresses in recent history.

Recounts Achievements

Along with its record of insurgency, however, the sixty-ninth has written considerable legislative accomplishment.

It's chief enactments have been: A new tax bill which saves the country upwards of half a billion dollars annually.

Ratification of all the remaining war debt settlements, save that of France, and that will be ratified as soon as France ratifies.

Reorganization of the prohibition enforcement system, bringing all agents under the civil service system.

Passage and re-passage of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, each time vetoed by President Coolidge.

Government regulation of the lusty infant radio industry through the creation of a federal commission with czar-like powers.

A new banking act, broadening the field of national banks, and designed to strengthen the federal reserve system through extension of its charter.

Adheres to Court

Adherence to the World Court—an enactment later nullified by the powers' refusal to accept senate reservations.

Comparatively close adherence to the budget in all expenditures, thus achieving a record of economy.

Hundreds of minor bills, regulatory, corrective, and routine.

On the other side of the ledger, the sixty-ninth congress failed to dispose of numerous problems, the most important of which were:

No legislation to enable the executive to act in coal strikes, as recommended by President Coolidge.

No disposition of Muscle Shoals, twice recommended by the president.

No action on the Boulder Dam project.

No legislation furthering the consolidation of railroads, invariably recommended by the president in his messages.

No disposition of the alien property held by the government since the war.

No comprehensive program for reclamation, indorsed by Mr. Coolidge.

No reorganization of government bureaus and activities.

It was in the field of appointments, however, that the sixty-ninth congress waged its most flagrant defiance of the White House. Starting with the refusal to confirm Warren as attorney general, the senate rejected the appointments of Cyrus Woods as interstate commerce commissioner, of Wallace McCamant as federal judge, and of William J. Fallon as federal judge. There were a number of others of lesser importance. The McCamant case was personal with Mr. Coolidge, for it was this Oregonian who nominated Calvin Coolidge to be vice president in the Chicago convention.

The sixty-ninth congress probably set a high water mark for political investigation and wrangling—culminating with the famous Reed committee's activities, which undoubtedly will result in the closing of the senate's doors in the faces of two senators elect, Vare of Pennsylvania, and Smith of Illinois.

Decide on Six Seats

In addition, it was called upon to decide six bitter contests involving the rights of members to their seats. Nye of North Dakota, Bratton of New Mexico, Gould of Maine, Schall of Minnesota, and Stock of Iowa, and Smith of Illinois, as an appointee of the governor.

The heavy hand of the electorate's displeasure fell hard on the sixty-ninth congress during the latter months of its life. Dozens of its members fell by the wayside in primaries, and dozens more were retired at the general election in November.

Scores of new faces will appear in the seventieth congress, due to convene next December, with the Republican control whittled to the vanishing point in both houses.

THE Wyoming State Tribune tells you that "the Union of Central and South America and the Antilles has ordered a boycott against everything produced in the United States." GOVERNOR EMERSON of Wyoming invites President Coolidge to come here and fish on his vacation next summer. The president replies that he wants to come but cannot make his vacation plans "for some time yet." But he ought to accept Governor Emerson's invitation, get a big car and travel over a few thousand miles of this western country, northwest to Seattle; south to San Diego; back to the high Sierras, where they fish for trout without barbs on hooks to save time taking off the fish at the rate of 15 or 20 a minute. This part of the country likes President Coolidge and he would like this country.

Edwards Gymnasium, Delaware, Mar. 4—The brick walls of this structure were trembling today with reverberations upon reverberation of the human voice, an element undeniably contiguous with the joy of youth and high school basketball.

The occasion was that of the North Central Ohio District tournament for Class A and Class B. boys' teams and from indications in evidence at the opening this morning the trembling, the joy and the enthusiasm will not subside for long after the final gun cracks Saturday night bringing an end to the season's cage activities for all entries but the two finalists in each division.

Two out of three of the Marion County Class B teams were successful in the first round of play today. Caledonia defeated Monroe Township, 16-14, Prospect defeated Carroll, 18-10 and Green Camp county champions lost to Gambier, 29 to 16.

County Represented

Marion County was well represented among the field of be-jerseyed athletes as team after team swung valiantly on each of the three shining floors to try its luck with the opposition. The results were always the same, one outfit came away happy and hoping to continue in the good graces of the Lady Luck of Basketball and the other downcast and overwhelmed with bitter defeat.

The promises of the remainder of the day were many and colorful at the

CRAZED YOUTH JUMPS INTO RIVER, DROWNED

Policeman from Whom He Was Fleeing Also May Die from Icy Battle

New York, Mar. 4—George Goldstein, 17, of the Bronx, a psycopathic patient, dashed to liberty from Bellevue Hospital early today and was drowned in a death battle with policemen who attempted to rescue him after he had plunged into East River.

The two patrolmen who fought the crazed youth in the darkness were taken from the water in a serious condition. One is believed dying from the effects of the battle in the icy water.

Goldstein was being led to the psychopathic ward at Bellevue when he made his spectacular and fatal dash. Patrolman William McAdam was accompanying him. He pursued the youth, plunged into the river to save him, and may die.

Other policemen who came to the scene at the sound of shots formed a human chain in an attempt to drag the fighting pair from the water, but their efforts were unavailing. One of these policemen, William Duffy, was himself a victim of submersion and also was taken to the hospital. The dead man and his would-be rescuer were taken from the river by firemen.

GIRL KILLED BY TRAIN

Baby Johnson, like the five others, was mistakenly administered boric acid solution for drinking water.

Washington, Mar. 4—The senate today accepted without debate a report of its elections committee dismissing the charges which resulted in an investigation of the pre-election records of Senator Gould, Republican of Maine.

HUNDREDS OF BILLS KILLED BY FILIBUSTERS

Government To Be Embarrassed by Failure To Enact $93,000,000 Deficiency Bill

NINE MONTHS' VACATION

State of "Civil War" Exists in Senate as Short Session Ends

Washington, Mar. 4—The sixty-ninth congress was strangled to death at noon today after a three-day siege of legislative paralysis provoked by an outbreak and desperate filibusters over the subject of senatorial campaign investigations.

A state of "civil war" existed in the senate as the congress died, with all legislative activity halted. Hundreds of bills were killed.

A burst of oratory, in which Democratic leaders flayed their Republican opponents for blocking further investigation into Republican slush funds, sounded a senatorial dirge to the departing congress. Then the gavels of Vice President Dawes and Speaker Longworth fell in the house and senate and the members hurried off for a nine months' vacation before reconvening in the new congress next December.

At 11:30 o'clock with half an hour to go Senator Reed of Missouri, was not modified to confine the recess activities of the slush fund committee to Pennsylvania, Illinois, Colorado, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi.

Deficiency Bill Killed

The principal legislative casualty of the stormy ending was the $93,000,000 second deficiency bill, providing money for a score of government activities. The $165,000,000 building program, designed to furnish scores of cities with new federal buildings, also died.

The government will be enormously embarrassed by congress' failure to enact the deficiency bill. The war department was particularly hard hit and may have to discharge some thousands of men because there is no money for their pay. The measure also carried $11,500,000 for the purchase of the Cape Cod canal; $8,000,000 for seed loans to farmers; $500,000 for three new naval cruisers; $115,000 for new radio commission, and millions for the federal courts and judiciary.

The new radio commission will now be left without funds, the navy without cruisers, and the courts will be hampered for lack of funds.

Denounces Filibuster

In the last half hour, an attempt to appropriate $35,000,000 for the veterans' bureau and $37,200,000 for the pension bureau was defeated when Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts, declared he would not permit its enactment so long as the slush fund

DAWES DENOUNCES RULES OF SENATE

Washington, Mar. 4 — Vice President Dawes today stole the spotlight at the last moment with a sharp denunciation of the senate's rules, which had permitted the three-day legislative deadlock. He rose a minute before noon, pounded his gavel for silence and declared it was his opinion that the "legislative tangle" was due to the "defective rules" of the senate.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL BOY CAUGHT IN SUICIDE WAVE

Washington, Mar. 4—The student suicide wave struck Washington today.

Herbert Willett, 17, killed himself in the corridor of Central High School, the largest in the city, by shooting himself in the head this morning.

WOMAN TO TESTIFY

Mrs. Liszka on Stand Today For Murder of Husband

Cleveland, Mar. 4 — Mrs. Anna Liszka, charged with manslaughter, for the slaying of her husband, Anton Liszka, was expected to testify in her own defense today when trial resumes in Judge Walter McMahon's court. Defense attorneys are also expected to introduce several "surprise witnesses" in an attempt to prove that Liszka had threatened his wife with death on occasion.

The state rested its case Thursday.

Anton Liszka was hacked to death Feb. 2, last, while he slept. Mrs. Liszka shortly afterward confessed the killing.

SUFFERS FATAL ATTACK WHILE DRIVING TRUCK

Loren Smith, 211 Cummin-av, Dies As He Swerves Into Driveway

Death, believed to have been due to a heart attack, came to Loren Smith, 30, of 211 Cummin-av, while he was driving a Ford delivery truck on S. Prospect-st. near W. Church-st, a few minutes after 9 o'clock this morning.

The truck one of a number that are operated by the Merchants Delivery Co., swerved into the driveway between the Jones Bros. filling station and the Central Fire Station on S. Prospect-st and crashed against a post at the end of the Jones Bros. grease rack.

Firemen Edward Fetter and Wesley Isbieb, who ran immediately to the machine found Smith dead at the steering wheel.

Whether death came while Smith was driving the machine north on Prospect-st, or whether he turned it into the filling station driveway as he felt the fatal attack coming on, is a matter of conjecture.

In Good Health

As the car swerved into the driveway, the driver of another machine coming from the rear barely averted a collision.

The wooden post struck by Smith's truck was broken off near the base but the car was only slightly damaged.

Smith, who was one of four partners operating the Merchants Delivery Service, had apparently been in the best of health and was not subject to heart attacks his relatives stated today.

Smith's body was carried into the rear room of the Central Fire Station.

Born in Middleport

Smith, who was born in Middleport, O., on Oct. 6, 1891, came to Marion from his former home in Columbus about five years ago after he and his three brothers-in-law, Albert, Ralph and Theodore Jennings, had formed a partnership to take over the local merchants' delivery service.

He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Dora Jennings, and a son, Albert, 12. His father, William Smith, resides in Columbus.

He was a member of Humboldt Lodge, No. 470, F. and A. M., of Columbus, and Marion Chapter, No. 62, R. A. M., of this city. Officers of the Marion Lodge of Masons are assisting in making arrangements for the funeral, which probably will be held at the Smith home, 211 Cummin-av.

SIGNS 146 BILLS

Coolidge Saved Much Pennork Through Filibuster in Senate

Washington, Mar. 4—The spectacular senate filibuster which paralyzed congress' activities in the closing days saved President Coolidge a lot of pen-work today.

The presidential signature was attached today to but 146 bills and resolutions in the closing hours, whereas normally on closing days there are hundreds of bills to sign. The filibuster prevented hundreds of minor bills from passing.

State Department Denies Mexican Ambassador Was Recalled From His Post

Washington Rife with Rumors as Senor Don Manuel Tellez Hurriedly Leaves Capital for New York Enroute to Mexico City

New York, Mar. 4 — Senor Don Manuel Tellez, Mexican ambassador to the United States, is now on his way to Mexico City, but he has not been recalled from his post, according to a statement made today to the International News Service by Arturo M. Elias, Mexican Consul General in New York.

Consul General Elias declared that the ambassador went directly to Mexico City from Washington and that his mission concerns the latest note which the United States has sent to Mexico. The contents of this note have not been disclosed.

STATE DEPARTMENT ISSUES STATEMENT

Washington, Mar. 4 — The hurried departure of the Mexican ambassador, Senor Don Manuel Tellez, added another link today to the mystifying chain of developments forged in the Mexican situation this week.

Senor Tellez is in New York to catch the first available steamer for Mexico. His departure from Washington was accompanied by reports that the state department had demanded his recall, but these were subsequently denied by Under-Secretary of State Grew. No explanation, however, was forthcoming either from the embassy or the department concerning his abrupt departure.

The state department later issued the following:

"Reports that the Mexican ambassador's recall has been demanded by the United States are without foundation, and this government has no information concerning the purpose of his visit to Mexico City."

VERDICT PRAISED BY DEMOCRATS

Washington, Mar. 4—The Miller-Daugherty verdict today was applauded by senate Democrats and insurgents.

"It is a great vindication of the work performed by my committee," said Senator Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, and it is a great triumph for justice in the federal courts."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, said "little by little, justice prevails."

Republican leaders declined to comment.

JUDGE QUASHES INDICTMENT ON EX-ATTORNEY

Jurors Unable To Reach Agreement in Case of Former Cabinet Member

OUT ALMOST 71 HOURS

Report Vote 10 to 2 for Conviction of Daugherty; 12 Ballots Taken

New York, Mar. 4—Thomas W. Miller, post war alien property custodian, today was convicted by a jury in federal court of conspiring to deprive the government of his honest services through the approval of a $7,000,000 claim for war-seized German property.

The case of his co-defendant, Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, resulted in a jury disagreement. The two former officials of the Harding administration were alleged to have shared in a $391,000 "fee" paid by German interests to obtain approval of the claim.

Miller's bail was continued in $5,000 pending an appeal, at request of his counsel.

Deadlocked on Daugherty

The jury filed into the courtroom at 11:25 o'clock, after sending in a note stating that they had decided on one defendant, and that they were hopelessly deadlocked on the other. After polling each juror and receiving an answer to this effect, Judge Knox turned to the foreman and asked:

"Gentlemen, what is your verdict?"

"We find the defendant, Miller, guilty as charged," replied the foreman. "No agreement could be reached in regard to the defendant Daugherty."

Judge Knox then pronounced Miller guilty, and announced that he would accept a disagreement in the case of Daugherty.

At the request of United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner, who had charge of the prosecution, Judge John C. Knox nolle prossed the indictment against Daugherty. The former attorney general smilingly thanked Buckner.

See "Love Feast"

"I had to do my job, you know," Buckner responded genially.

To observers it appeared that a "love feast" was in progress.

Except for a slight paleness, Colonel Miller displayed no emotion at the verdict. He was seated at the counsel table and remained immobile when the jury filed out.

Daugherty, on the other hand, was palpably nervous. He nervously stroked his chin and shifted about in his chair uneasily as the jury prepared to return its verdict.

Colonel Miller's wife started crying when the verdict was announced. She dashed her eyes with a handkerchief and quivered visibly.

The possible penalty for the crime of which Miller was convicted is two years in the federal penitentiary, or $10,000 fine, or both.

Daugherty Vote 10 to 2

Following the verdict and the quashing of the charges against Daugherty, everyone thanked everyone else, except the two defendants. The judge thanked the jury and the jury thanked the judge. In return for their arduous labors the jurors were excused by Judge Knox from further jury duty for five years.

It was learned that the balloting stood 10 to 2 for conviction of Daugherty. The jury took 12 ballots in Daugherty's case. It was a hard battle on Daugherty and seldom did the vote vary.

In Miller's case only six ballots were taken. On the first ballot the vote was seven to five for conviction.

The information about the voting was given by Frederick Margareten, juror No. 3, who said that throughout the deliberations there had been no bitterness among the jurors, and no attempts at coercion.

The length of the jury deliberation, almost 71 hours, broke the record of the previous Daugherty-Miller trial, which resulted in a jury disagreement for both defendants, by five hours.

After recovering from the first shock of the verdict, which was more or less expected, Miller assumed an air of almost bravado.

"I'm not through fighting yet," he said.

SAYS BRITAIN, U. S. CAN'T BOSS ENTIRE WORLD

Sir Esme Howard Believes Both Nations Should Avoid "Entangling Alliances"

Washington, Mar. 4—Both the United States and Great Britain should avoid "entangling alliances" and must "avoid still more as an inspiration of the devil, that idea which we sometimes hear mooted that 'If England and America stand together they can boss the world,'" declared Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, in a speech before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday.

"The sort of unity I want to see grow up among the English speaking peoples is a unity of heart and understanding," said Sir Esme. "I should like to see a fraternal attitude of mind towards each other—a sense of confidence in each other's determination to prevent anything, anything in the wide world rousing us to a pitch of fratricidal conflict. I must deprecate a certain school of patriotism on both sides of the water which is always eyeing askance the armaments of the other.

"If we have to spend large sums on armaments, let us at least do so without reference to the armaments of the other—but only considering our own necessities for protection generally.

"I should like to see all members of the English speaking community taking it as an accepted fact and believing as I believe myself that a war between us is absurd, impossible."

BEHIND THE SCREEN

Francis X. Bushman made up for his role as "George Washington" and, inset, a recent photo.

IT'S rather a far cry from matinee idol roles to heroic historical parts. A decade and less ago Francis X. Bushman was making the feminine heart flutter when he made love to Beverly Bayne in a new picture every couple of months. Now Bushman seems determined to forget all that and establish a name for himself in character parts.

His most famous role since he returned to the screen was in "Ben Hur." No trace of the handsome lover of old in his characterization of Messala. In "The Lady in Ermine", based on the Austrian-Italian War of 1870, he was an Austrian general. This was followed by the role of George Washington in "The Flag", a technicolor picture by Colorcraft Productions.

And still another George Washington part is awaiting him, the title role in "Belgrano" a historical film based on the life of the South American hero at the time when Argentina obtained its freedom from Spain.

It is to be filmed in Hollywood for the Ajuria Production Company of South America.

Norman Kerry has been chosen to play the colorful role of "Gaylord Ravenal," the gambler, in "Show Boat", which Universal is making from the novel by Edna Ferber.

Among the spring and summer releases recently announced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are—

"Red White and Blue," a comedy with Marceline Day, George K. Arthur and Karl Dane.

"The Grey Hat" a comedy which features Renee Adoree and Roy D'Arcy, and Dorothy Sebastian.

"The Unknown," an original story to be directed by Tod Browning starring Lon Chaney with Joan Crawford in the leading feminine role.

FOUND WONDERFUL RELIEF FOR CRACKED, BLEEDING HANDS

Had almost screamed with pain

Reading, Pa., Oct. 20:—"I am writing to tell you what great relief Resinol Soap and Ointment have brought me. I had such terrible sore hands. They were dry and cracked open, which caused them to bleed. When I put them in water the pain was so great I could have screamed and I could scarcely do any work at all. I had sent for a sample of Resinol Soap and Ointment, but I had tried about a dozen different remedies which brought no relief, so I had little faith in them and they had not been used. At last, however, in desperation I began to use your samples to see what good they would do, and was greatly surprised and delighted at the wonderful relief they gave. Now I would not be without Resinol Soap and Ointment, and my husband and children are also users of your preparations." (Signed) Mrs. John Machemer, R. F. D. No. 2.

RENEW BITTER FIGHT AGAINST PLAN OF VANS

Minority Group of C. & O. Stockholders Petition I. C. C.

Washington, Mar. 4.—The bitter fight waged by a group of minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad to prevent O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland engineers, from linking up the big railroad properties into a holding company corporation, which would in the plan being turned down by the Interstate Commerce Commission, is to be renewed.

This was the intention today by counsel for the Van Sweringen proposal when the action of the majority group headed by George S. Keith of Richmond, Va., in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in the Van Sweringen case now pending before the commission.

The petition promptly granted by the commission was presented by Henry W. Anderson and Thomas F. Gay, Richmond counsel who successfully led the fight against the Van Sweringens merger last year.

Oppose Plan

The minority group oppose the plan sponsored by the Van Sweringens of Nickel Plate, the Chesapeake & Ohio acquiring the Erie and Pere Marquette through the purchase of capital stock. They also are opposed to the issuance of $20,000,000 of capital stock by the Chesapeake & Ohio on the ground it is "not for lawful purpose."

When the Van Sweringens had Kemp and Anderson named on the Chesapeake & Ohio board and made that road the nucleus of the proposed merger instead of their own Nickel Plate road, it was believed they had gotten in a master stroke in thwarting the disgruntled minority. The latest action of this group in intervening in the case indicates that the latter fight will be renewed.

Their chances of success in defeating the plans of the Van Sweringen interests are believed to be somewhat dimmed however, as the new merger plan is understood to have removed most of the objectionable financial features of the original plan.

When asked to take a back seat most people take offense.

MILITARY CAMP QUOTA HERE IS NINE THIS YEAR

Plans for Enrollment Under Way Following Columbus Officers' Visit

Plans for the enrollment of nine young men from Marion County for Citizens Military Camp training this year were under way today following the visit here yesterday of Lieut. Col. M. S. Cressy of Columbus, who announced appointment of Major Chester C. Roberts of this city as county chairman to have charge of the recruiting work.

Marion County's quota has been fixed at nine for 1927, two more than last year, and it is expected that the quota will be filled within a short time. A supply of application blanks was left here by Col. Cressy for distribution to young men who plan to get in line for enrollment. The blanks may be obtained from either Major Roberts or Dr. J. W. McMurray, former county chairman.

In order to be eligible for training camp enrollment, applicants must be American citizens of good moral character between 17 and 24 years of age and also being in sound physical condition. Applications of those under 21 must be signed by parents or guardians.

In Camp Month

The training camp period is of one month's duration and all expenses are paid by the government. This includes transportation to and from camp, board and lodgings and all incidentals. Each young man is also supplied with uniform and equipment without charge.

Young men from Marion County accepted for cavalry and artillery training, the mounted branches of the military service, will be sent to Camp Knox, Ky., where the training period will be from July 2 to July 31. Those assigned to infantry and signal corps work will be at Camp Benjamin Harrison in Indiana from June 20 to July 19.

Yesterday Col. Cressy, who discussed training camp enrollment plans briefly in a talk before the local Kiwanis Club, stated that a large number of enlistments have already been reported from the Fifth Corps Area, of which Marion County is a part. These include 202 former training camp graduates as well as a considerable number of new applications. The Fifth Corps Area consists of Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky.

Camp Schedule

The camp schedule is arranged so that there is plenty of entertainment and amusement intermixed with training work, Col. Cressy stated. Military instruction and drills last throughout the morning of each day, as a rule, and the afternoon is taken up with athletic sports and other forms of recreation.

Records show that since the training camp system was inaugurated six years ago, 158,000 young men have been enrolled and that 90,000 more applied but could not be accommodated because of lack of room and facilities. The government expects to remedy this situation so that eventually all applicants found to be eligible can receive the training.

Quotas established for various counties in this part of Ohio for this year are as follows: Marion, nine; Wyandot, four; Crawford, 12; Hardin, eight; Union, one; Morrow, five, and Delaware, 10.

Daily Proverb—"There is more disputing about the shell than the kernel."

Well, we have it off our hands at last. Let's be happy.

A woman suing her fifth husband for divorce is an advocate of trial marriage. Looks like she might be able to speak as an expert.

Who knows? Vice President Dawes may have gone upon the theory that if the senate calf were given enough rope it would hang itself.

The producer and the cast of another vile New York show have been indicted. It begins to look as though decency is really making gains.

"I'm not willing to admit that figures won't lie," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today, "but I will admit that they don't lie as much as they did before the girls began dressing as they do."

Let us be fair enough to forgive congress for some of the things it did do and thank it for many things it didn't.

A fashion note says soft collars are for warm weather and sports only. The sports referred to are amusements, of course, and not those who are or only think they are.

Possibly that women's organization asking that the so-called annual "beauty" pageant at Atlantic City be discontinued might withdraw its objection were it no longer pulled off under false representations, but called a leg show.

In all his attempts in that direction, Mr. Dawes at no time so thoroughly demonstrated the utter silliness of the senate rules as did the senators themselves during the session just ended.

Another thing which would materially help in dissipating the flood of crime would be to have the public attitude the same toward criminals after such criminals are caught as it was before they were captured.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says "it's easier to build a filibuster than it is to build a dam." "Uncle Hiram" Johnson will agree that it's enough sight easier than it is to build a dam 595 feet high.

The Pittsburgh Post remarks htat "at intervals it is expected that former Governor Pinchot will take his stand outside the administration and hiss." Well, it will have to be admitted that Gif. isn't a bit like a man who will not, at times, manifest a spirit of discontent.

Really, if his presidential boomlet is to be boosted during the coming spring, summer and fall, it looks as though Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri, will have to do it at his own expense.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer prints a report that Suzanne Lenglen "is suffering from an attack of romance." A lot of people get that notion when in reality all they have is a mild case of indigestion.

Away from Population Centers.

Until very recent years, the tendency in highway construction was to run roads from city to city and from town to town. In fact, the purpose of roads up to five or six years ago was to link up municipalities, one with another. Times have changed, however. The coming of the automobile has brought problems never before presented. Such is the volume of motor traffic now that to meet it the old rule has been reversed and now the tendency in the construction of great highways is to avoid cities and villages that congestion may not result.

The latest illustration of this is had in the plans for the proposed new highway to connect Lafayette National park at Bar Harbor, Maine, with the Shenandoah National park and the valley of Virginia at New Market.

The great boulevard as planned by the army engineers headed by Major Carey H. Brown of the National Capital Park and Planning commission, is to be 200 feet wide throughout its entire length, and this end, it is easily to be seen can be accomplished only by its construction away from centers of population.

Referring to the proposed highway, a recent article in the Washington Star quotes Dr. S. M. Johnson, managing director of the Lee Highway association, as saying:

"Our plan is being developed on the principle of by-passing every town or city in order to avoid traffic congestion. The towns recognize the necessity for this, for it will not be many years until as many as 100,000 cars a day will be using this motorway. It will be impossible to widen the main streets of towns like New Market to take care of this volume of travel in addition to local use for transit and parking along the main street."

There's the situation in a paragraph. There's the explanation why the old plan of connecting municipalities had to be abandoned and why the new plan has come into use. And as traffic increases and cities and villages grow, the greater will be the need for running great highways away from municipalities at the same time running connecting highways to them.

Sensible Words by Sensible Woman

We have not always found ourself in agreement with Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, but she certainly speaks from an insight into human nature when she says: "Let us make it as fashionable to obey the law as it now seems to be to break it."

Mrs. Catt has here hit upon the cause of much of the law violation of today—the decision under which some people suffer, that it's the smart thing to break the law; that it's the thing to do to show independence of character. This and humanity's long-recognized inclination to do that which it is told not to do are in large part responsible for much of the crime with which the land today is cursed growing out of the liquor traffic. Millions of people are defying the law today to get liquor and keep it and pass it out to their friends and their friends are drinking it, not because there is any real appetite upon the part of any of them for liquor, but because they believe it's the swagger thing to do.

We like Mrs. Catt's proffered remedy for the present liquor evil and we also like the calm, considerate way in which she presents the case for temperance when she says:

"I do not move in a circle where liquors are ever served or mentioned, therefore it is only natural that I would not know to what extent some certain people break the law. I believe that nobody knows how matters really stand. In talking to various people, asking their opinions, I have found that fifty per cent believe the wets to be the stronger, while the other fifty per cent are just as certain of the supremacy of the drys. I do know that in the city of New York since prohibition, every lower city mission has become self-supporting. Each person should make a law unto himself, determining not to tolerate any infringement of the eighteenth amendment."

Mrs. Catt may never live to see the consummation of her plan for doing away with the liquor evil. None of us may live to see it. Its time of coming may be as far distant as the millennium, but when the otherwise honest, decent, law-abiding people of the land begin to accept the prohibition law as worthy of just as much respect as any other law—then the problem of the liquor evil will near solution, and we are frank to say we do not anticipate the doing-away-with the evil until that time arrives.

It's a thousand-to-one proposition that, throughout the closing hours of the senate session, the presiding officer was quietly smiling into his sleeve.

Congress put over the three-cruiser program despite the opposition of the president and then got its machinery blocked and failed to make an appropriation to carry out the program. Honestly, we believe, Mr. Coolidge would be forgiven, under the circumstances, should he smile a bit.

But when all is said, Mr. Borah is not so much worse than many of his fellow-senators committed to the senate policy of seizing the powers of the executive branch of the government and illegally augmenting the powers of the legislative branch.

The rewards of this world for great accomplishment are not so evenly distributed as they might be. Babe Ruth is to draw $70,000 salary this year, and we do not know of a hard-working spreader of joy and sunshine in paragraphs in the entire land who will draw within $10,000, let us say to be on the safe side, of that.

What if baseball was played in Athens 1,300 years ago as that Yale professor claims, the players were probably a cheap lot. They didn't have any Czar Landis to charge them with indiscretions to lead to salary boosts.

We can hardly criticize the French for increasing their tariffs on manufactured goods to protect home industries, as we have been rather strong for protection over here for some time, but that doesn't stop us from wondering how the French will take to the idea of paying more for home manufactures as a consequence.

Those sesquicentennial stamps yet in circulation must have much the same effect upon Philadelphians who receive letters bearing them as the sight of their pictures nailed to telephone poles have upon defeated political candidates.

With five meals a day and larger trays introduced by cafeteria managements in the hope of increasing sales to patrons, over in London, we're wondering how our British cousins are going to get through with one meal in time to tackle another, especially so when they take a full hour for a repast so simple as their afternoon tea with its cakes and jam.

It is said that the best way to fight the corn borer is to pull up and burn all the corustalks left standing in the fields. If the process is as simple as that, why not get busy without waiting for the $10,000,000 congressional appropriation to carry on the fight? The most of it will probably go to the fellows making surveys and others along that line, anyway.

Vagrant Verse.

SONG OF SIXPENCE.

About my tower lone and still
Are darting birds that come at will
And sing me songs of building nests
And apple boughs and downy breasts
And all the little joys of birds.
I write them out in simple words
And change them in the marketplace
For bread and cheese and beads and lace.
But now and then there comes a day
When all my birds have flown away,
And from my tower lone and high
I only see an empty sky.
I spread my lures of seed and crumb,
All day I wait—they will not come.
And then at last I know the truth:
My birds have gone, like love and youth,
And I must sit with empty heart,
And naught to carry to the mart.
I crawl into my weary bed
As to a grave—my songs are dead
And then, beneath the window sill,
I hear a sheepish little trill!
Afraid to stir or breathe I lie
Till dawn comes flooding up the sky,
And once again the air's alive
With singing as my birds arrive!
By night I'm strutting down the stairs
To change a song for market wares.

Drug Addiction Leads to Torture.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Among the sad letters I receive are those coming from the friends and relatives of drug addicts. It so happens that I have had rather an unusual experience with sufferers of this sort. For this reason my heart goes out to those who are touched by the blighting hand of drug addiction.

The papers were filled a little while ago with a new cure applied to the inmates of a prison in an eastern city. Conflicting accounts were printed regarding the effects of this alleged cure. The stories have resulted in a renewed discussion of a question which now and then comes to the front.

So far as suffering goes I would rather have almost any disease than to endure the agonies associated with the taking of drugs. The victim of this addiction is never comfortable, in mind certainly, except when he is under the poisonous influence of the narcotic.

The victim of any narcotic drug loses his normal stamina. He can not bear the slightest discomfort, twinge of pain or even the changes of weather. The minute the slightest symptom of physical annoyance appears he rushes for his drug. With every dose these comes further undermining of the physical and moral strength. It is not long before the victim is the abject slave of the drug.

When we come to the question of cure we are dealing with an entirely different condition from the treatment of a disease. We are not dealing with a self-limited condition; we are not dealing with something having a natural tendency toward improvement. On the contrary, we can not hope to have the assistance of Mother Nature who is so kind to us in most of our illnesses. The forces within us which make for recovery from disease have been poisoned and paralyzed by these dreadful drugs.

I was not much impressed by the terrible tales of suffering with were spread abroad by the persons who took the treatment in the aforementioned institution. It makes no difference where the treatment is given, by whom it is given or what it is, the weakened body and more weakened brain and nervous system of the drug addict will make him complain bitterly of the most humane attempt at a cure.

In order to get the drug the habitual addict will resort to any tale of woe, exaggeration of fact, or utter dishonesty. He will tell the truth about everything else, but to get more morphine or heroin he will perjure his soul. A story of human suffering he knows to be the quickest way to get more dope.

His is one human affliction which can not be overcome by medication alone. Unless the victim of drug addiction affects a moral regeneration, he has little chance of permanent cure. There is no trouble to take the patient off the drug—that can be accomplished in a couple of weeks but, without a moral regeneration sufficient to stimulate the will-power, disaster is just ahead.

The first time that human suffering or social disturbance occurs there will be a return to the drug.

I can give this word of cheer—with proper custodial care over a period of a few weeks and physical upbuilding afterward, together with permanent change of environment and association, and awakened sense of responsibility, will come a complete cure.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

I. D. Q.—Will a little common baking soda after meals help gases in the system?

A.—If you watch your diet and avoid constipation you will not have to resort to taking the baking soda. Too much of the latter would not be wise. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1927.

There is nothing that will more quickly convince a professional reformer his work has been brought to a glorious and satisfactory conclusion than to discover suddenly that the income for the year won't be sufficient to keep him in the style to which he has formerly been accustomed while prosecuting this great and important movement. — Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Who was the richest man in Greece when Homer was reciting his poetry?

Who was the richest man in the Roman empire when St. Paul was preaching?

Who was the richest man in France when Joan of Arc led the French troops to victory at Orleans?

Who was the richest man in Italy when Savonarola was burned at the stake for his courage and his preaching?

Who was the richest man in England when Shakespeare was writing Lear and Hamlet?

Who was the richest man in the city of Washington when Abraham Lincoln entered that city as president of the United States?

The writer can not give the answer to these questions. He does not remember. Do you?

Those who have provided for their own immortality, those for whom the monuments are built, those whom the voices of men will praise forever, gave the world more than money and more than money can buy.

We need rich men in this practical world. It is well that at least a few have the talent for acquiring wealth. They back and build the enterprises by which thousands of us are taken care of. But the accumulation of money has never proved to be the unforgettable, master task of the world.

For tying a thousand knots in hair a little Chinese girl gets a whole cent. She will not be rich soon, but in China a penny is a penny. And the Chinaman who sells his hair gets a fraction cut of the industry too. Now bobbed hair, cutting down the demand for hair nets, is putting hair knitters and knotters out of business.

So many little articles of every day use to whom few give thought have their stories—fascinating, sometimes tragical. A fad in the United States may carry heartbreak to men and women and little children in Africa and China.

Critics are still taking shot at Edison and his belief about life, God, and immortality. Little good shooting at a man because of his beliefs. He believes that he can. If he will add to that the habit of doing as well as he can he shouldn't be made the target for sharpshooting. And anyway, Edison said he believed that a supreme intelligence pervades the universe. That may not be fundamentalist, but it's fundamental.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

New York, March 4 — Thousands are strolling. More buildings outraging the skyline. And no place for tender spines to go. A store offers "Dignified credit." The hunch-back East Side gambler with his constant companion—a fragile blue-eyed blonde.

All the noise parlors feature colleges for men. And most of them never get beyond the third grade. A tomato sandwich sings. A $785 motor coat—$785. Variety's office a mid-editorial throne. Those eccetic, sallow young men who write "blues" songs.

An agency wants bagpipe players for a street carnival. And will furnish the kilts. A performing lamb in a crate. Fire sales and cure-all carry stores. Whatever became of sandwich bags? Tattered sandwich men carrying fresh beauty parlor signs.

Charlie Fail, the artist with bangs. The millinery shops with gushing owners and autographed window pictures. And drug stores ballyhooing the latest in hyphenated patent medicines. Curb hawkers and the whistling and quacking ten-cent toys.

The mid-town Wall street with heart throb and suppressed air of excitement. Swanky clocks. Soda fountains preparing for spring. The smartly-dressed stenographers who seem to have the "offish" manner that goes with banking.

The thousands who somehow approach Grand Central with quickened pace. And quicker pulse. The thrill of travel even for those homes. Gay-ribboned train baskets. Bright-jacketed books. But where, O where, is the candy-filled glass train revolver?

Brisk drummers who make "sleeper jumps" as casually as they flip a cigar end away. Lovers who stand moist-eyed over parting. Withered ladies off for California in the hope of blooming again. And that cheerless one often saddest of all cries: "All a-boo-a-ard!"

In a Bowery burlesque house a lobby sign announced the curtain rising and start of the performance in this manner: "Hats off 8 o'clock—Rag histed 8:10." It is the only theater left, incidentally, which has candy and crackerjack butchers parading aisles between acts. The night I was there a stooping comedian was whanged over the six-spot with a slap stick by a beefy blonde and a shower of sparks spurted out of his green wig. If that isn't comical it is something near it.

The old program names survived. There were Fuller Bull, a wise drug store cowboy; Percival Gotrox, whose father won't let him work in his bank; Useless, a chauffeur; Mighty Nuttle, a newsstand girl; Phat Stummick, a Peruvian ice-worm importer. And many others.

The performance was hilariously rough. Men slapped ladies' bare shoulders and jerked chairs out from under them, while the audience howled. Modern burlesque has been standardized to compete with the average musical revue. And as a rule it is more wholesome.

But the Bowery wanted the old days and a veteran theatrical man is trying out the idea. Slummers have been attracted and the vogue may last for awhile—but not long. Even the Bowery will lose interest. When burlesque abandoned its coarse vulgarity and women were allowed in the orchestra—instead of contained boxes—business was more than tripled.

Even the shooting gallery has passed from the Bowery. The plink of bullets used to be heard in every block. Now only two remain and they are facing meager patronage. The freak museum has gone up to Forty-Second street and the shooting gallery to upper Sixth avenue.—Copyright, 1927.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

I can remember the time when the joke-smiths were all worried because there wouldn't be any more jokes about drunks or men that stayed out late or guys that tried to disguise their breath. That was right after the famous amending act was done, and simple-minded folks thought that everybody would start right in leading righteous lives. Even the movie managers, I remember issued statements that they would have no more use for scenarios with glasses of liquor in them.

But times have changed, and this here John was bootlegged in from Canada the other day, I think it's been cut a little, so the kick and the boquet may be a bit off.

A guy come running into the police headquarters and says: "I want to talk to the fellow that you caught for robbing my flat!"

The lieutenant seen the guy was excited, and he says: "Now bo, I wouldn't hurt that guy if I was you. He's confessed to robbing your flat, and we've got all the stuff back, and the law will take care of him."

"I don't care nothing about the law, nor the stuff, but I've got to talk to that burglar!"

So they let him talk to the yegg, with a policeman standing between them. The cop was surprised when the excited guy offered the porch-climber a five dollar bill and grinned at him. He was still more surprised when he heard the victim's question:

"Say guy," he says, "you know something that'll do me a lot of good if you'll only tell me. You got into our flat without waking up my wife, and I've failed to do the same thing 700 times in the last ten years. I'll be your friend if you'll slip me the secret." — Copyright, 1927.

Dinner Stories.

"My dear, I have a splitting headache," said he. "Can't you manage to get rid of these people?"

"Why, I can't very well show them the door," replied his wife. "What would you advise me to do?"

"Certainly, you can't put them out," said the husband wearily, "but couldn't you set your self at the piano?"

"Everybody's profiteering now," said the senior partner in a grape juice firm, "and it's up to us to get a move on. Shall we raise our price, cut down the size of our bottle or adulterate our grape juice?"

"Gee, you're a back number," the junior partner sneered. "We'll do all three, of course. Why can't you be up to date?"

Two college students were arraigned before the magistrate charged with hurdling the lamp-posts in the road in their motor car.

"Have you a lawyer?" asked the magistrate.

"We're not going to have any lawyer," answered the elder of the students. "We've decided to tell the truth."

Freddy, with a determined look on his small countenance, marched into the front room and up to his sister's ardent suitor.

"What's them?" he demanded, thrusting out a grimy hand full of small white objects.

"What are those?" said the young man with an ingratiating smile. "Those are pearls."

"He does know 'em, maw," bawled Freddy triumphantly into the adjoining room. "He said he didn't."

Q. How does the commerce of the Mississippi river now compare with that of former days? A. L.

A. The secretary of war says that he has received statistics showing that the commerce of the Mississippi river between St. Louis and New Orleans is now greater than it was ever before. The first official census of transportation by water in the United States was made in 1880 and this gave the total commerce of the Mississippi river and its tributaries as 28,289,503 tons. The total is now approximately 50,000,000 tons, without duplication, or nearly twice what it was thirty-seven years ago.

Q. Is is true that the United States army provides moccasins for dogs used in Alaska for transportation? W. E. M.

A. Army regulations referring to the dogs used for transportation provide that among other things each sled taken out shall be furnished with "two pairs of moccasins specially fitted for each dog." Another unusual feature of these regulations is that "the nails of dogs will be carefully pared down before the first work in the fall, and will be examined every month and pared as often as necessary to prevent pulling out, which causes lameness."

Q. What is the new Belgian coin worth in American money? T. H.

A. The new Belgian gold unit, called the belga, is equal in value to about fourteen cents in our money, which would give approximately 7.208 belgas to the dollar.

Q. Were lake dwellings built in the early days of man because there was little land? R. O. D.

A. The land surrounding the known sites of lake dwellings was much as it is now. It is believed that the huts were built over the water because such dwellings were easy to defend from attack.

Q. How long have there been trained nurses? M. E. D.

A. It was early in the twelfth century that a so-called school for nurses was organized by the Abbess Hildegarde from among her friends and associates in hospitals. It was not until the middle of the nineteenth century that the movement was given a distinct impetus, for which Florence Nightingale was responsible.

Q. How many teaching hours to high school teachers have? C. E. K.

A. Five hours a day is the average number of hours required for teaching in high schools. This time varies, however.

BORER CONTROL MEASURE READY FOR SIGNATURE

Emergency Act Providing for $200,000 Appropriation Passed by Senate

Columbus, Mar. 4—While the Ohio legislature was in recess today over the week-end, the Hamilton Emergency Act was on its way to the governor's office where, it was expected, the approving signature of Governor Vic Donahey was to be attached. The act appropriates $200,000 of state funds and provides quarantine rules and other regulatory measures, sanctioned by officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, designed to control the European Corn Borer.

The senate and house recessed late Thursday until next Monday night.

Just before recessing, the senate, by a vote of 33 to 0, concurred in the action of the house in passing the Hamilton Act which is expected to insure expenditure in Ohio of at least $3,500,000 of the $10,000,000 which congress recently appropriated in connection with efforts of federal agricultural authorities to control the corn borer in Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Michigan.

The senate authorized payment to Sen. A. H. Etling, Wayne County, Democrat, of $693 from the state treasury as reimbursement for expenses he incurred in the election contest instituted by A. Lee Fair, Millersburg, Holmes County, unsuccessful Democratic state senatorial candidate last fall, who challenged Etling's election. The senate ruled that Etling was duly elected.

The house adopted the joint resolution offered by Rep. W. T. Rooney, Belmont County, memorializing congress to provide for elimination of alleged freight rate discrimination against coal shipments from the central coal fields and favoring shipments from southern coal fields. The resolution goes to the senate.

Senate amendments to the Brown bill increasing motor and motor vehicle fuels to the state gasoline tax, and the Stone Nichols bill, permitting the leasing of lands of municipal hospitals and school districts for oil, natural gas, coal, petroleum, gas and other minerals were concurred in by the house. These bills now go to the governor.

Defeat Motion

The house defeated a motion by Rep. Arthur Hamilton, Warren County, to make his motion that the house reconsider the vote by which the house Wednesday passed the Howard Marshall bill, appropriating $112,000 as state aid for a teachers' training school at Wilmington College, Clinton County.

After reconsidering the vote by which the rules were failed to pass Wednesday, the house passed the Van Wye bill appropriating approximately $112,000 as state aid for municipal training schools for teachers at Cleveland, Toledo and Akron. The bill goes to the senate.

To Reconsider Vote

The house also adopted a motion to reconsider the vote by which it failed to pass the Keifer bill providing for exemptions from execution and attachment. The bill is expected to come up again for passage next week.

The house passed the Akin bill providing for licensing foreign insurance brokers, and the Black bill, providing for compensation for members of boards of education in rural villages and special school districts. These bills now go to the senate.

resolution was blocked. In this action he was supported by Senators Howell, Republican, of Nebraska, and Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana.

Senators Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, led the three-day filibuster against the Reed committee resolution. They openly blocked every attempt to consider other legislation during the first 37-hour continuous session, held to break their filibuster. In the end, though, they were willing to pass the appropriation bill but Walsh and his associates then took up the filibuster and objected.

Senator Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, held the floor almost uninterruptedly for the last 15 minutes of the session with a seathing denunciation of the filibuster.

Raps Reed

"Now let the junior senator for Pennsylvania, (Reed) go back to his people, a knight of the closed bulkhead box. And let him go to Andrew Mellon and explain why he defeated the treasury's public building bill."

Senator Shortridge, Republican of California, arose at eight minutes to 12 and without recognition from the chair demanded of Senator Harrison, "Now let us forget politics for a few minutes."

His statement was broken off by a riotious outburst of laughter both from the floor and gallery. He took his seat without finishing the sentence.

Senator Harrison resumed, characterizing Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, as "The Little Lord Fauntleroy of Pennsylvania politics," and reading from newspaper files Reed's vigorous denunciation of Representative Vare during last spring's Pennsylvania primary.

"Those are the golden words which fell from the silver lips of the senator from Pennsylvania," Harrison continued, "when he was working for the nomination of Senator Pepper against the man whom he now defends at the cost of all the public business of the senate."

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, tried repeatedly to interrupt the Mississippi senator, and even attempted several times to shout his answers across the chamber without recognition from the chair. Harrison declined to yield and was finally halted on the stroke of noon by Vice President Dawes.

The vice president read his statement with vigor and concluded by banging his gavel savagely for the blow that sounded the death knell of the "fighting sixty-ninth" congress.

The senate reconvened early this morning, after an overnight rest.

The filibuster, staged originally by Republican senators against a resolution extending the powers of the Reed campaign fund committee, spread into the insurgent ranks, finally leading to a recess at midnight after the senate had been in session continuously from 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. All legislation, with the exception of the deficiency bill, appeared blocked from enactment.

All factions agreed on the recess at midnight in the hope that a night's sleep, by soothing frayed temper, would lead to a truce by which the necessary appropriation bill could be enacted. It carried hundreds of items for virtually every government department but the largest item was $35,000,000 for the rehabilitation and hospitalization of World War veterans.

Filibuster Spectacular

The filibuster was the most spectacular in years. It lasted seven hours longer than the recent battle over the Boulder Dam bill and would have lasted until noon today, without a break, if the opposing factions had not listened to the entreaties of dozens of aged senators for a chance to sleep. It was not a record session, however, as the senate met for 54 consecutive hours in 1917 during the famous filibuster against the armed ship bill on the eve of the World War.

Tremendous crowds jammed the capitol during the night session, thousands being turned away.

The secret of the filibuster was revealed during last night's debate. It was led by Senators Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, and Phipps, Republican, of Colorado, the latter being a new recruit. It was Phipps who said the Reed slush fund committee planned to investigate the Colorado primary, in which Senator-elect Waterman, Republican, defeated Senator Rice W. Means. Phipps then said the resolution, extending the power of the committee, could not be adopted.

Kills Many Bills

The filibuster killed hundreds upon hundreds of bills. All the activity of the house in the last few weeks was wasted as the bills could not pass the senate. In this jam were the $165,000,000 public buildings bill, along with a $19,000,000 appropriation for the inauguration of construction work this year, and the alien property bill. The latter was certain of defeat although there were some hopes the former might escape the filibuster at the last moment.

A half-dozen investigations also went by the boards. The most important were the Norris resolution to investigate southern patronage and the Borah resolution, giving the senate foreign affairs committee power to investigate Latin-American conditions during the recess. The La Follette resolution, declaring against a third term for President Coolidge, also was strangled.

May Go Ahead

The fresh campaign investigations, which the filibuster sought to block, however, may be carried out by the Reed committee despite defeat of the resolution. The supreme court recently held the senate was a continuing body and that a senate committee could meet legally during a recess, even after the congress which created it, had died.

This opinion was expressed by Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, one of the senate's constitutional authorities. The final decision, whether to stop or to initiate new investigations, however, will rest with the committee itself.

year to this nation and benefit ten millions of Americans, solemn senators said they couldn't think of applying the cloture. It was against their deepest convictions. Therefore, a very great enterprise is postponed.

BUT when prohibition authorities needing extra supplies of public money to carry out their plans, demanded the cloture and warned that refusal would mean "disloyalty to prohibition ideals" these same senators jumped through the hoop as ordered. They know that in millions of minds "back home" a glass of beer is more important than several Boulder Dam projects.

WHERE money is, men will dig. It was proved in Italy, before architect's had learned how to make great domes like that on St. Peter's hold themselves up as they rose in the air. One dome was built and filled with earth to support it as it rose, until the sides met at the top. Putting in the earth would be much less expensive than taking it out. So they mixed with the earth beneath the dome small coins of a total value much less than the cost of removing the earth. When the dome was finished the population was told it could carry away the coin bearing earth. The great dome soon stood empty.

FOR real digging see the Utah Copper Mine, close to Union Pacific tracks at Bingham Canyon, Utah. The digging done under army engineers, constructing the Panama Canal, was considered extraordinary. But every day Utah Copper mining engineers move out more tonnage than was taken out of the Panama Canal in any one day of the most intensive operations. To avoid making tunnels, the top of a great copper bearing mountain has been peeled off. Huge electric shovels chip off the "capping or overburden," unearthing the ore that is blasted out in tremendous broken up by shovels and loaded on cars carrying out as much as 50,000,000 pounds of it in one day.

WONDERFUL wealth, yes, but there are in the United States many brains from which more wealth has been taken than will ever come out of that mountain of copper. Explore your own head, there may be something in it.

noon hour, Harding High was to play Columbus Central in the Class A division at 5:30 o'clock on the main court and Marion County seat rooters were having high hopes for their team. Columbus fans were also confident.

Baird Outstanding

The one outstanding figure in the whole tourney for Marion County folks when half the day's schedule was complete was the feat of Dale Baird, Caledonia High forward who dropped through a long shot in the final minute of the game with Monroe Township to win the game for his team and incidentally furnish the neatest piece of excitement of the entire morning's play in the gym.

The disaster which overtook the Marion County Class B Championship Green Camp team was overwhelming. Gambler's cagers displayed a finished style of play that could not be stopped and the shooting eye of the Green Camp boys failed in the fewer time that it was their privilige to try for goals. The Kenyon College town outfit will play the winning Caledonia team tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock and the odds are even with either team.

The easiest match for a Marion County representative was the 18-10 win for Prospect, over Carroll. The latter named bunch showed little basketball and the victorius team scored an easy march to triumph.

Another county champion went down when Hyatts defeated the Cardington Team of Morrow County in the morning play by a score of 24 to 21.

G. A. THIBAUT IS VICTOR IN SLANDER SUIT

Given Verdict in $30,000 Action Filed by Henry N. Oberlander in 1925

The slander suit brought nearly two years ago by Henry N. Oberlander against G. A. Thibaut to collect $30,000 damages for alleged defamatory statements came to a close yesterday in Marion County Common Pleas Court when a jury returned a verdict in favor of Thibaut.

Oberlander filed the suit May 15, 1925, charging that Thibaut in a conversation accused him of stealing money from the profits from operations of the Marion Building Service & Loan Co., at that time the property of Mr. Thibaut.

In an answer filed by Thibaut all of the allegations were denied.

Mosser, Young & Mosser were attorneys for Thibaut and Oberlander was represented by Charles Schaber, Bucyrus.

Trial Opens

Trial by jury of the case of Harold A. Stout against U. S. Nystrom, an action to collect damages of $15,531.20 as the result of a traffic accident opened today in Marion County Common Pleas Court.

The suit is based on injuries sustained by Stout when he alighted from an E. Center-st car at the siding near Pennsylvania-av and was struck by the car alleged to have been driven by Nystrom.

The petition sets forth that Stout was confined to City Hospital for seven weeks with a fractured leg sustained in the crash. In addition to the $15,000 Stout is asking for $140.30 for hospital expenses and $500.00 for surgical and medical attention.

Issues Statement

With a view to speeding up the work of making out income tax reports at the office in the law library at the courthouse, C. L. Howald, internal revenue agent from Columbus, who is in charge of the local office, today issued a statement urging business men to have their figures compiled before seeking aid in filling out their reports.

Mr. Howald said that the failure of men to compile figures has hampered the work in the office.

According to the schedule outlined by Mr. Howald the office will be open until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon and next week will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 8 p. m. with the exception of the last day when midnight will be the closing hour.

Second, we trust only those who can give the best of reference. Therefore we lose no accounts.

Third, we are out of the high rent district and have much less overhead expense. Therefore we do not have to get so much profit on our sales.

These advantages are all handed down to our customers.

NEAR EAST IS PEACE MENACE, SPEAKER SAYS

Floyd Spencer Addresses Marion Kiwanis Club at Noon Luncheon

[illegible] is any situation existing in [illegible] which is menacing to [illegible] and world peace, it is not to [illegible] in China or other points in [illegible], but in the nations of the [illegible] which make up the Mediterranean," Marion Kiwanis Club members were informed in an address during their noon luncheon at the Harding, yesterday, by Dr. [illegible] of Ohio Wesleyan University, recently returned from a trip to Turkey, Greece and neighboring countries.

"The safest course for America to pursue is for us to go our own way and be guided by promises of any other nation," Dr. Spenser stated, basing his views on personal observation of the [illegible] conditions in the Near East. "The less we have to do with that part of the world, the better," the speaker declared, adding that "a very small spark set in motion as the result of a clash between two of the [illegible] elements which make up the population in the Mediterranean quarter may start a conflagration which will compare in magnitude with the World War."

Dr. Spenser, who is professor of Greek at Ohio Wesleyan and is an unusually eloquent and fluent speaker, drew a graphic word picture of the Near East countries and of the strange mixture of modern and ancient customs which exist there. His address was heard by a company of about 75, consisting of Kiwanis Club members and several guests.

Describes People

Beginning with his arrival in Symrna in company with a number of other American tourists, Dr. Spencer, by vividly describing people, conditions and customs, took his audience on an exceptionally interesting trip to Jerusalem, Athens and numerous other points of historic note in that locality.

In referring to Turkey, which figured prominently in the address, Dr. Spenser declared the Turk is considerably more of a gentleman than he is generally given credit for."

In defending the Turkish people with regard to some of their customs, [illegible] the practice of committing suicide, Dr. Spenser said that he believed that most of these atrocities [illegible] to what is known as "the rage of the mob" and to the [illegible] of clashing religious beliefs [illegible] to any normal condition.

In summing up his talk, Dr. Spenser said that he returned home, "prouder of America than ever before," and convinced that it is the most beautiful country in the world in every respect.

Cites Example

He said that in America can be found virtually everything of interest which exists in other countries, with the exception of the unique intermingling of modern conditions and facilities with those of ancient origin. He cited as an example, Smyrna, where camels, which have been used in transportation in that country for centuries past, are seen traveling thoroughfares along with automobiles of the most modern design.

Dr. Spenser advocated complete and detailed registration of all aliens coming into this country, similar to the plan in effect throughout Europe. In most Near East countries, an American registering at a hotel must furnish the management with almost his complete life history, this record being required by police authorities.

Dr. Spenser is preparing for another tour of foreign countries during the summer.

Prior to Dr. Spenser's address, Fred A. Stengel, president of the Kiwanis Club, presented A. W. Kette, former president, with a gold club pin in recognition of his services.

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

WITH the passing of 1926 lovers of good literature find their resources enriched with a diversified collection of estimable new books. Few years have introduced many such eminent books as "The Story of Philosophy" by Will Durant, in which one makes the acquaintance of all the old philosophers, or Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln," which presents a delightful and unique picture of the famous American; or Theodore Dreiser's great story of life, "An American Tragedy." In a somewhat lighter vein one thinks of the unforgettable novels of the year, as "Preface to a Life" by Zona Gale, the author who not long since carried away literary laurels with her play, "Miss Lulu Bett," and won a vast reading public with her charming picture of American life in "Faint Perfume."

Ellen Glasgow's "Romantic Comedians" is soaring in popularity and, it has been whispered, is being talked of for the Pulitzer prize. It was during the past year that Edna Ferber, who won an enviable popularity with "So Big" produced "The Show Boat," and Dorothy Canfield Fisher, now one of the most widely-read novelists in the United States, achieved "Her Son's Wife," in which, with keen penetration into human nature and understanding, she presents a problem of life.

Other novels of the past year not easily forgotten were John Galsworthy's "Silver Spoon," Percival Christopher Wren's "Bean Sabreur," Susan Fritz's memorable novel of reality, "After Noon," published only a short time before her latest publication, "Wind of Complication," Hugh Walpole's intriguing novel of life, "Harmer John," Arnold Bennett's story of war-time England, "Lord Raingo," Martha Ostenso's enjoyable "Dark Dawn," the two biographies of George Washington, Rupert Hughes' "The Human Being and the Hero," and Woodward Washington's "The Image and the Man," and the much-discussed "Book of Marriage" by Count Keyserling and 24 noted authors. In the latter novel the development and old and modern conception of marriage are stated, explained, propounded and left to the reader to judge.

MANY GOOD BOOKS SEEN THIS YEAR

ADVANCE material and the many excellent early spring publications promises an equally bright literary year in 1927. One of the earliest of new spring books and one eagerly awaited by lovers of the intensely human novelist, Booth Tarkington, was "The Plutocrat," which transplants the successful, big-hearted, "jolly-good-fellow" type of American business man in Africa and exposes him in contrasting types of cosmopolitan people.

Among the other good and entertaining books already published are "Tomorrow Morning" by Anne Parrish, "Galahad" by John Erskine, which he treats in much the same manner as his earlier work, "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," "Dawn" by Irving Bacheller; "The Allinghams" by May Sinclair; "Islanders" by Helen Hull; "Dear Old Templeton" by Alice Brown; "The Silver Cord" by George Agnew Chamberlain; "Children of the Morning" by W. L. George; "All at Sea" a new Fleming Stone detective story by Carolyn Wells; "The Delectable Mountains" by Struthers Burt; "I'll Have a Fine Funeral" an ironic novel of a senator of the French republic by Pierre La Maziere; "The Stronger God" by Eric Waring; "Sylvia of the Minute," by Helen R. Martin; "Zero" by Collinson Owen, and "The Mysterious Affair at Styles" by Agatha Christie.

AUTHOR LISTS "TEN BEST" BOOKS

IN a recent article appearing in "Brentano's Book Chat," Will Durant, author of the "Story of Philosophy" cites as the world's best ten books, the Bible, the Iliad, the plays of Euripides, Plato's Republic, Plutarch's Lives, the Plays of Shakespeare, Cervantes' Don Quixote, Spinoza's Ethics, Goethe's Faust, and Whitman's Leaves of Grass. In refering to the above list Mr. Durant says, "As I recite these titles it is as if I were uttering some sacred litany; these are the rosary with which I would say my prayers, the hymnal from which I would sing."

TARKINGTON STILL LEADS "BEST SELLERS"

THE "best sellers" bulletin for last week shows little change from that of the two preceding weeks. The novels most popular last week were "The Plutocrat" by Booth Tarkington, "Tomorrow Morning" by Anne Parrish, "Doomsday" by Warwick Deeping, "Young Anarchy" by Philip Gibbs, "Galahad" by John Erskine, and "One Crystal and a Mother" by Ellen Du Pois Taylor. The non-fiction best-sellers for the week were "Palmerston" by Philip Guedalla, "She Story of Philosophy" by Will Durant, and "Napoleon" by Emil Ludwig.

CENTURY CO. LISTS NEW PUBLICATIONS

THE Century Co. announces the publication, Mar. 16, of the following books, "Black Butterflies," a novel of young people of today by Elizabeth Jordan; "The Ardent Flame," a novel of the Italian 13th century by Frances Winwar; "Our Generation," a study of the problems and ideals of modern young people by "One of Us"; "Mallorca the Magnificent," a history and picturization of the Balearic Isles" by Nina Larrey Duryea; "Further Venture Book," a story of the solitary wanderings in the cannibal East Indies by Elinor Mordaunt. Two adult books and two juveniles were published by the same company Feb. 18. They are "The Stranger from Cheyenne" by Joseph B. Amesm and "The Dark Fire" by Elinor Mordaunt, adult; and "The Castle of the Hawk" by Katherine Dunlap Cather, and "Gervaise of the Garden" by Edith Ballinger Price.

AIR OF MYSTERY IN CHILD'S NOVEL

"GERVAISE OF THE GARDEN," the new child's novel written by Edith Ballinger and published by the Century Co has just that air of mystery and romance so enjoyed by children.

The story is laid in the garden of an old ruined castle on the New England coast, and it was there that 14-year-old Nancy with her younger sister, Alison and her brother Robin, found Gervaise.

Strange and lovely and quite foreign as Gervaise, a girl of mystery with some deep sorrow hanging over her. Her only friends were the quaint old-fashioned flowers of her hidden garden, for the old man who lived in the ruined castle and kept ervaise prisoned in that place did not allow her any human companionship.

A little withered curious old man he was. Gervaise said he was her grandfather. But Robin, when he found Gervaise, said that the old man was a wizard. He was always reading in his Latin books and muttering words that sounded like black magic. Gervaise was afraid of him that was sure. But why?

The story of Gervaise, and of her friendship with Nancy, Alison and Robin, is charmingly told in a story full of color and excitement, with an undercurrent of mystery which is not fully solved till the final climax.

Miss St. Johns father was a noted criminal lawyer on the coast and his daughter often sat beside him through trials, becoming familiar with courtroom etiquette and procedure for criminal defense at an age when most children are in kindergarten. "A Free Soul" by George Crum Cook, author of "The Soul" is the story of a girl named Ysanne and known as a critic and restrained by convention who sees her lover. STATE SUPREME COURT REVERSES COMMISSION

Nullifies Order Authorizing Consolidation of Nine Motor Bus Lines

Columbus, Mar. 4—Upholding the appeal of the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., the state supreme court, it was announced today, reversed the action of the state utilities commission which authorized the consolidation of nine motor transportation lines so as to provide for through service between Cleveland and Cincinnati by way of Columbus.

The supreme court nullified the commission's order which approved the proposed purchase of the Buckeye Service Co. of the following motor transportation routes:

The Forest Motor Bus & Transportation Co., operating between Cleveland, Medina and Wooster; Charles C. Schaffer Co., operating between Columbus and Wilmington; Chris Reitler Co., operating between Blanchester and Cincinnati; C. M. Bebout Co., operating between Mansfield, Mt. Vernon and Coshocton; Chris Reitler Co., operating between Columbus and Blanchester; Homer Johnson Co., operating between Columbus and Wilmington, Mason & Mason, operating between Mt. Vernon and Newark, and Fred Allery, operating between Columbus and Johnstown.

In reaching the decision, the court held that the state utilities commission abuses its discretion when it grants a transfer of a certificate to operate to a purchaser who could not qualify for an original certificate. In this connection, the court, also, declared that a new certificate must be obtained on a showing of public convenience and necessity to run two separate routes and establish through service between the outlets termini of these routes. An order of the commission granting transfer of a certificate to a purchaser may be irrelevant "is unreasonable and unlawful," the supreme court held.

PRIZE ERIE BULL TO BE GIVEN THIS COUNTY

Reward for Co-Operation Extended Railroad in Special Train Project

Marion County agriculturists are to be rewarded for their interest and co-operation in the Erie Better Bull Special project arranged by the agricultural department of the Erie Railroad Co., according to plans laid here yesterday afternoon at a meeting of Paul Blackmann, Ohio State University, and T. M. Palmer, Erie agricultural agent, Jamestown, N. Y.

At this conference, held in the office of A. R. Teanie, Kent division freight agent for the Erie, preliminary plans were made to present the grand prize bull to Marion County. Plans for disposing of the bull will be made at another conference here next month.

According to preliminary arrangements the bull will be given away by the local Better Bull committee some time in June. A barbecue is being planned in connection with presentation of the animal.

Marion County was chosen for this reward, those attending the conference pointed out, because of the co-operation and aid extended the Erie Railroad in making the project a success in this community.

Young people of today are full of hope, of ambition, of buoyancy of spirit. As time goes on, they will be disappointed in some of their aims and ambitions, but if they will simply remember all such periods of their lives that ... practically everyone who eventually accomplished anything worth while—whether a great general in command of armies, an inventor, a scientist in search of the cure for a disease, or the pioneer in agriculture—has failed not once but many times before achieving what the world applauds and rewards, they will not let failure daunt them. The only failure that is dangerous or fatal is the failure of courage.

CENTRAL JUNIOR HIGH ADOPTS UNIQUE SYSTEM

Banking Reports Announced Throughout Building with Loud Speaker

A rather unique system has been attempted at the Central Junior School with a view to increasing the banking percentage of that building. A loud speaker attached to an amplifier in Mr. Orcutt's office has been placed in the hall. As the reports of the banking of each room are brought to the office, they are immediately broadcasted through the loudspeaker so that they are heard throughout the building.

This appeals to the student's spirit of competition and as a result the percentage of the building has been raised 31 per cent.

Black Bird Exhibit Placed In Nature Study Case at Central Junior High School

Dr. F. A. Stengel Contributes Mountings for Class Study; Students Prepare Descriptions of Birds Included in New Display

Perhaps the most beautiful exhibit ever has been placed in the Central Junior High School nature study cases is to be found there now in the main lobby of the building. Having finished the crows family Dr. Stengel is displaying four species of the blackbird family, the red wing blackbird, the purple grackle, the crow and the raven. Members of the Nature Study Club have prepared the following descriptions of these birds.

The raven, common in Europe, Asia and America, is however seldom seen here except in some desert, arid states. It is frequently found in the island of the Hebrides, where it lives on various kinds of carrion. It also eats lobster cast ashore by the waves. In these cases the raven conducts itself like the vulture. It is a very crafty bird and can with difficulty be approached. By having food near its haunts and being carefully concealed, one can see it carefully approaching, first perching on a high lookout then advancing with a ... Blackbird, red wing oriole and red wing ... The red wings are from 7½ ... to 9½ inches in length, and get their names from the scarlet, yellow tipped shoulders of the males, which otherwise are black as coal. The female is somewhat nondescript in appearance, with ... Blackish brown upper parts streaked with pale black and gray, and dusky ... while under parts streaked with reddish brown.

These birds found throughout the United States in the summer are found in enormous flocks. They begin their southward migration in October or early November, traveling in large ... and become winter residents of ... States. Some starlings, are brave enough to endure the hardships of a New England winter and refuse to join the autumn migration parties.

The favorite nesting place of blackbirds is a low bush on the edge of a pond or the moist grass of marshes. Nests which are made of grass, leaves and mud are depositories for from three to five eggs, pale blue in color, with streaks and spots of black or purple. They are the first songsters birds given credit to early morning. They feed upon worms, insects, fruit and grain, and their frequent raids upon the fruit ripening in the farmer have given them a bad reputation. On the other hand, they more than offset the damage to the corn by the service they render in destroying immense numbers of harmful insects.

Farmer's Enemy

The crow is of a sociable persuasion chiefly for destroying young corn. It is to a large extent, beneficial in destroying cut worms, grubs, and other larvae. Even though the nest produced by the crow are bulky and unmusical, its vocal muscles are highly developed, and its general structure and intelligence has caused it to be regarded as the highest type of bird. There are many kinds of crows, such as the hooded crow, the rook and ripping crow. Their range is to be found all parts of the world but chiefly in the northern hemisphere. All are more or less black. It is smaller than the raven, but usually it is more than 15 inches in length.

The purple grackle, which is also being exhibited with this collection, is common throughout the eastern and central parts of the United States and north into Alaska. It is often ... 12 or 13 inches in length and about ... again as large as the robin. The head of the male bird is black in ... Gloss, blue, copper, and green tints ... dominate. The female is more of a brownish gray.

Their nests are usually found in pine trees, in the north and bushes in the south, made of sticks and twigs. They lay four eggs, pale bluish and gray in color.

The purple grackle will readily learn many musical tricks and to imitate the human voice. Some authors believe the purple grackle to be one of the most destructive birds.

NO MORE GETTING UP NIGHTS

After Years of Bladder Weakness and Kidney Aches

Amazing Story of Woman Who Relieved Kidney and Bladder Inflammation Through the Use of MATAMEL, the NEW MEXICAN BAP MADE FROM THE MAGUEY PLANT.

There's a good old fashioned mother down at 611 Norway Avenue, Trenton, N. J., whose family have been very much worried about her declining health for many years. Her story is being published in this newspaper so that other men and women who suffer with the agonizing torture of backaches and headaches, dizzy spells, swollen ankles and limbs, pains in joints, general weakness—folks with sure signs of certain forms of chronic kidney and bladder inflammation who must get up many times at night, are short of breath, and feel all played out, may also find relief. This was the condition Mrs. Horley found herself in when one day she read about the new Mexican remedy—Matamel.

She tried all kinds of remedies without success and at first was skeptical. On learning that Matamel was not a patent medicine, but a natural remedy made from the sap of the well known Maguey plant, she decided to try it.

She jubilantly testified as follows:

"I have suffered for many, many years, as only a sufferer of certain forms of chronic kidney and bladder inflammation can suffer. To sit down on a chair was torture—my back ached so much. Getting up was the same thing. I have tried all sorts of doctors for six years with no results.

"I couldn't eat, had no ambition to work and then tried electric treatments with the same effect. At night from frequent disturbance and great pain I could rarely sleep right through. A leading pharmacist here recommended Matamel to me and I am happy to state that I am once again the woman I was before I had my trouble.

"The backache has left me. I sleep all night, take pleasure in eating, have no pains whatsoever. I cannot say too much for Matamel".

One doctor in commenting on the above, stated: "I have personally seen men and women in all walks of life receive benefit from Matamel. I cannot recommend it too highly".

Don't wait until there is no chance left to help your kidneys. Matamel is now being used by over 200,000 with amazing success. You can get it from:

Below is the Maguey plant from whose sap Matamel is made.

Mrs. Horley, Trenton, N. J., whose backaches and weakness are gone, thanks to Matamel. (c) 1927.

Trade Ports Fear Boycott by Chinese—Not Massacre

Let Natives Refuse To Buy from, Sell to Foreigner—He's Ruined

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—When they read accounts of their home newspapers of supposed physical danger to foreigners in China's "treaty ports," the residents of these Occidental trading posts in the Far East only laugh.

They look for no attack from outside their boundaries, and even if one should occur, know themselves to be amply equipped to stand it off, at least until relieved. They are equally certain of the ability of their foreign police to repress any possible disturbance by irresponsible natives inside the settlements."

The British, to be sure are described as having been dispossessed of their "concession" at Hankow. The fact is that they surrendered it as a matter of policy. They could easily have held it forcibly had they elected.

Violence is not what was possible for anyone in China fears, but at the first sign of a Chinese anti-foreign boycott, such as there have been suggestions of recently, he turns pale.

The fear is not, after all, in China for just as cheap goods.

Let the trade fail for all the Chinese refuse to deal with him or to work for him, and he is ruined or to buy his goods—and look ruined.

THE Chinese have reduced the boycott to an almost exact science.

There is, for one thing, a wonderful degree of solidarity among them, partly voluntary and partly enforced, under penalty of death. It is not a legally inflicted penalty. Even in China officers sometimes escape the penalties decreed by law, but they very seldom escape execution of the sentence imposed by the great guilds.

Every Chinese, from the beggars up to the powerful groups of Shansi bankers, belongs to a guild. Let his guild adopt a policy and its last member sticks to it to the last gasp.

A Chinese boycott of any foreign country's products usually begins with the "comptadores" guild.

The term "comprador" probably was borrowed from the Portuguese at Macao. They call the agent who is by no means necessarily a buyer, but commonly the manager of a sales organization, a comprador.

Each one deals ever acquire a sufficient acquaintance with the mass of Chinese merchants with whom direct. A "comprador" is retained. This "comprador"

LICENSING OF DRUG STORES IS URGED AT MEET

Forty-Six Druggists from Central District Attend Gathering Here

Passage of a bill now pending in the state legislature, which, if enacted into law will require licensing of all druggists in Ohio where medicines or drugs are sold, was strongly advocated by prominently identified with the every pharmacist in business in addresses given at a meeting of Central Ohio druggists and pharmacists held at Hotel Harding last night.

A license system is essential, the speakers declared, to safeguard the public health and welfare against dealers in nostrums and "bootleg medicines."

The main addresses were given by Professor Raabe of Ohio Northern University, Ada; Prof. Edward Spease of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, who is heading the movement for adoption of the license plan, Henry Pollack of Cleveland, former president of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association; T. D. Wetterstroem of Columbus, secretary of the state organization; and M. N. Ford of Columbus, secretary of the State Board of Pharmacy.

More Than Merchant

Professor Raabe said that in order to maintain the highest possible standard in the business, it is the duty of every pharmacist to be more than a mere merchant. In conjunction with physicians, Professor Raabe said, the pharmacist has absolute control of the distribution of drugs and as a consequence he is first of all a public servant responsible for preventing adulterated and spurious products from going to purchasers.

In explaining the proposed license law, Professor Spease said that it is intended solely as a safeguard to prevent unscrupulous retailers from handling drugs and dispensing them without knowledge of their effectiveness of potency.

"Many of these places", he asserted, "are the sources of bootleg products and have cast a slur on the good name of pharmacy."

In their addresses, Henry Pollack, T. D. Wetterstroem and M. N. Ford emphasized the necessity of pharmacists maintaining a high standard in their business and to use their influence to bring about passage of the pending bill.

36 Druggists Attend

The meeting was attended by 36 druggists and pharmacists from Hardin, Marion, Logan, Union, Seneca, Wyandot and Crawford counties, which comprise the Central Ohio district in response to an invitation issued by the Marion County Pharmaceutical Association, local organization of druggists and pharmacists.

The program of addresses followed a 7 o'clock dinner at which the Marion County druggists were hosts. During the dinner hour, music was provided by an Orthophonic Victrola, contributed for the occasion through courtesy of the Wiant Book Store.

Clifford Bartlett, president of the Marion County Pharmaceutical Association, was toastmaster and the address of welcome was given by Clifton Lower a member of the local organization.

J. W. Marnab of the Oakland Drug Co., secretary of the Marion County organization, followed Mr. Lower with a talk in which he outlined briefly the work being done in this locality to maintain high standard conditions in the drug trade.

It is expected to hold similar district meetings periodically and tentative arrangements were made to convene the next Central Ohio gathering in Galion some time in April.

After the "Flu" is Over ---you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and run-down. In such cases, a tonic is plainly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and depressed that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S. S. S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S. S. S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the process by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S. S. S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—Adv.

ERROL CONVULSING CROWDS AT GRAND

Leon Errol of the wobbley leg fame and formerly of Ziegfeld's "Sally" is convulsing audiences at the Grand Theater the last half of this week. Everyone of Errol's pictures has been successful and "The Lunatic at Large," his present film, is scoring laughs by the hundreds.

In "The Lunatic at Large" Errol has a merry-go-round where his brains ought to be and he hasn't any reason for doing the things he does. He is a hobo tricked into an insane asylum in place of a demented millionaire. Dorothy Machaill and Kenneth MacKenna are in his support.

Along with the picture three good Loew vaudeville acts, featuring snappy dancing, music and tumbling, are on the bill.—Adv.

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure Are Caused by Acute Indigestion, Says Medical Writer

Gas pressure from sour, acrid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly banish gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia, in powder or tablet form, at very small cost—but be sure you get BISURATED Magnesia—recommended by Doctors and Druggists throughout the civilized world for more than 13 years.—Adv.

ATLANTIC PATROL RESUMED AS ICEBERG SEASON NEARS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4—The iceberg season is again at hand in the North Atlantic.

It means extra work for the Coast Guard.

Other maritime nations share in the patrol, to keep their shipping from slamming into some such frozen, floating mountain as sank the "Titanic", but the United States is in charge of the job.

Bergs are especially a nuisance off the Newfoundland Banks partly because they're so plenty there and partly because there's so much fog. There may be other places in the northern seas where they're just as bad, but there's nowhere else where shipping is so thick.

Blowing Up Unsuccessful

The Coast Guard has tried blowing icebergs up, but without much success.

High explosives produce some impression on "growlers", as hab bergs which shuck off are called, but a big one, maybe acres in extent, weighing into the millions of tons, sticking up perhaps two or three hundred feet into the air and with seven-eighths of its bulk below water line, is about as impervious as the Rockies to shell fire or blasting operations.

"They just chip off a few slivers of ice," explains Lieut. Commander Stenphen S. Yeandle of the Guard.

The Coast Guard craft "Modoc" and "Tampa" tried TNT on a 500-foot long 250-foot high berg once. They fired four charges of 65 pounds each, and then, losing patience at the small results accomplished, tried one of 130 pounds. The net damage to the berg, as related in official report to headquarters, was a hole in the ice 15 feet deep and 20 feet across.

What Icebergs "Fear"

Warm weather and warm water are recognized by the Coast Guard as about the only two things that an iceberg isn't proof against.

Between Arctic and Gulf waters is what is known to Guardsmen as the "cold wall". North of it bergs last annoyingly—and dangerously. South of it ten days to a fortnight sees the finish of the biggest of them generally, though one case is recorded of a monster berg which patrol vessels trailed for thirty days. About a week is a medium sized bergs' limit in the Gulf Stream.

A berg seems to sense its peril in warm water, Guardsmen say, and tries to get out of it, "literally struggling for its life," as it's expressed not in any imaginative fancy sketch, but in a matter of fact Coast Guard account of ice observations taken in 1925.

Where They Originate

The North Atlantic's bergs are of Greenland origin — chunks of glaciers which the great inland ice cap has forced down into the sea, to break off and drift away.

For a ship to hit one is as bad as colliding with a continent and even a "growler" is no joke. To the Coast Guards credit there never has been such a disaster since it has been patrolling the ocean lanes. The last was to the "Titanic", in which 1,903 lives were lost, April 14, 1912.

Every year memorial services are held by the Coast Guard over the spot where the big liner went down.

"Smell" Ice—'Tis Said

Sailors say they can smell ice some distance away—that is, that they sense its presence by a chill in the air.

"Pooh," replies Commander Yeandle. "A berg doesn't change the temperature appreciably even right under its lee.

"Nor does it change the temperature of the water for more than 25 or 50 feet roundabout.

"The only safety from ice at sea is to know where it is and give it wide berth."

Shreveport, La., Mar. 4—Manager Ray Schalk has whipped a tentative infield into shape, in preparation for the exhibition games soon to feature training activities. The White Sox pilot has been using Cissy at first base, Way at second, Barrie at short stop, and Field Captain Eddie Collins at third.

Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., Mar. 4—A sudden switch from the hot sunshine of the past few days to a drenching downpour of rain, made the Cubs' practice session decidedly uncertain today. Much satisfaction was expressed here over the news that Earl English, purchased from Toledo, has signed a Cub contract, and was speeding to the scene of action.

Tampa, Fla., Mar. 4—The talk of the Nationals' camp today was of golf, not baseball. Earl McNeely, fine extra outfielder, scored a hole-in-one on the Tampa links. His tee shot on a short 150-yard hole dropped in. Goose Goslin and Sam Rice witnessed it.

Sarasota, Fla., Mar. 4—The Giants appear to be in a bad way for outfielders as a result of the illness of Ross Young, who is critically ill in Texas and probably will not be able to play this year. Added to this comes word from Cincinnati that outfielder Ed Roush will stick to his salary demands to the bitter end.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA., MAR. 4—ELIAS FUNK, OUTFIELDER FROM OKLAHOMA CITY, AND JULIAN WERA, INFIELDER FROM WINONA, MINN., HAVE THE BEST CHANCE OF ANY OF THE YANKEE ROOKIES TO STICK WITH THE CLUB, MANAGER MILLER HUGGINS INDICATED TODAY.

Penry Stars as His Team Goes Down for Third and Final Time Before Rivals

"Dapper" Makes 17 Points for High Individual Scoring Honors; Shovels Lead Most of Way; Each Team Displays Excellent Defense in First Half of Thrilling Contest

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

IN the third, final, and most thrilling contest staged in the series between the two teams, the Marion Steam Shovels last night downed the Isaly Dairy basketeers, 40 to 35, on the Star Auditorium court.

Taking the lead with a 5 to 4 score, 10 minutes after the game got under way, the Shovels never were overtaken, although threatened on several occasions when Penry "got hot."

Like Schwab for the Shovels in the second series game, Penry of the Dairies last night made almost half the points scored by his team when he was credited with 17 counters, 15 of which came in the final half. If the Dairy players had all fought like "Dapper," a night have been a different story. To that young man goes high scoring honors for the game.

High Score

Penry caged seven more points than any other individual on the floor and in addition played a great guard game, although inclined to be a little rough. He was the outstanding performer on the hardwood floor and deserves much of the credit for even bringing his team within striking distance of the smooth working Shovel outfit in the second half.

It was a nip and tuck affair in the first 10 minutes of play. Both teams displayed the best defense of the season and the points were few. Neither crew was able to solve the other's intricate formation before the basket. Long shots were not even attempted.

Then, with the count standing 5 to 4 with the Shovels leading, Bohyer set the ball rolling when he broke loose with one of his puzzling and accurate left-handed throws at the bucket. Roll followed with another, and Compton dropped in one for good luck. Still not content, Bohyer caged another and the score was 13 to 5 before Penry made a field goal for the Dairies. Shaw's counter in the final minutes of the half brought the tally to 15 and 7, with the Shovels on the long end.

Lynch Goes In

Lynch of the Kinnears, replaced Baldy Compton, at guard for the Shovelers in the final half. His personal fouls, together with those of Sacksteder, who went in as forward late in the fray, almost won the battle for Isalies.

Penry started things off right in the second half by making three out of three free throws following Lynch's fouls. A basket by Shaw, however, again pepped up the Shovels and they proceeded to increase the lead. The fast continued throughout in much the same manner until the final minutes when the crowd was treated to excitement galore.

With three minutes to play and the Shovels leading 38 to 29, the Dairies stepped into the fray with a faster pace. Penry caged a fielder, Applegett connected and Griffin counted another, shooting the score up to the 35-point mark. The rally was broken in the last minute, when Bub Wilson darted down the court for a Shovel field goal and pulled the series winners out of the hole.

Dairy Lineup

The Dairies opened the third series tilt without the giant Miller in the line-up at back guard. Tschanen and Penry took forwards, Minard played center and Applegett and Wes Griffin filled the guard positions. This combination formed one of the greatest defenses placed on the court for some time by the Isaly crew.

In the second half, however, the firemen did not go so well and Miller was sent in for Tschanen. A few minutes later Klunkler replaced Newt Minard at center. Minard did not seem to get into the game with much vim and vigor in the last half and even after taking his place for the second time, was again relieved by K. O.

The Shovels started the contest with Mel Shaw in Harry Schwab's position at center. Roll and Bohyer played forward and Bacon and Compton took the guard posts. Sacksteder and Lynch saw action in the second half. Wilson also broke into the fracas.

Last of Series

Last night's game ended the series between the Shovels, one of the greatest professional basketball teams in the state, and the Isaly Dairies, one of the most threatening semi-pro outfits in Ohio. The Dairies were outclassed in the three games, the difference being simply that they were a group of stars, two players while Manager Bacon had at his disposal some of the best players in the county.

The three contests drew the largest crowds ever to attend basketball games in Marion and were a huge success financially.

The Dairies go to Columbus Tuesday for the Ohio State Journal semi-pro tourney. The Shovels pass as yet have predicted no plans for another game in the near future, although it is possible that they will meet a few more opponents this season before disbanding.

NO INDUSTRIAL TILTS LAST NIGHT

Due to a misunderstanding in the date of playing, there was no bowling last night in the Industrial League on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. Eight Industrial League teams will bowl tonight, it was announced by Ed Meredith, manager of the alleys.

San Francisco, Mar. 4—Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, will make his debut in a San Francisco boxing ring tonight—merely as a visiting celebrity, however. Gene will be on hand to watch young Jack Thompson, Los Angeles, battle with King Tut, Minneapolis.

PLAN COUNTY AMATUER TOURNEY

STATE QUINTET TO MEET IOWA FIVE SATURDAY

Wrestling, Fencing and Gym Squads Also Ready for Action

Columbus, Mar. 4—Four Ohio State teams were primed today for combats tomorrow which will go a long way toward determining their standings for the season. Three of them, the basketball, fencing and gym squads, will do battle at home, while the wrestling contingent is on its way to Minnesota for a meet with the Gophers.

Resuming its campaign after 11 days of comparative idleness since it trounced Indiana, the basketball quintet will take on Iowa. The Hawkeyes triumphed over the Buckeyes in the first meeting of the two foes.

Victory over the Iowans tomorrow and over Indiana a second time in the final game of the season here next Wednesday would give the Buckeyes a satisfactory ending of what promised to be a dead season. They have now broken even in 10 games, and two more wins would enable them to end the season with seven games won and five lost.

Same Lineup

Against Iowa, Coach Olsen will rely on the same lineup which vanquished Indiana, even though Fred Grim, the forward who has been out of the game with injuries, is back in shape. The Buckeye lineup probably will be McMillen and Shuler, forwards; Heckrine, center; and Captain Hunt and Cox, guards.

Tomorrow afternoon in the varsity gym, the Buckeyes fencing and gym teams will take on Illinois fencers and gymnasts, respectively. These are the first dual matches of the season and an Ohio State victory would put the Badgers in a fair way to retain the Big Ten title they first won a year ago. To date they have defeated Purdue, Chicago and Ohio Wesleyan, the last named opponent, twice.

Fifth place is at stake in the Ohio State-Minnesota wrestling duel at Minneapolis. Both squads broke even in three regular schedules, respectively, in the eastern and western halves of the conference. The Ohioans won from Purdue and Northwestern, but lost to Michigan and Indiana. To the winner of tomorrow's match will go fifth place, with sixth place for the loser.

The track team has no meet tomorrow, but Coach F. R. Castleman is busy grooming the runners for the annual Big Ten indoor championships to be run off a week from tomorrow with Northwestern as the host.

A guest never knows how much to laugh at the family joke at the dinner table.

Annual Cage Meet to Get Under Way March 23, at Y. M. C. A.; Finals, April 1

Lauer Tailors and Midway Lunches Barred from Tourney; Three Classes Entered; Meet Is in Charge of Physical Director F. O. Rudolph

The first meet of the season at the Y. M. C. A. Marion County basketball tournament will get under way Wednesday night, March 23, at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, according to a meeting of the athletic committee [illegible] last night.

The tourney will be open to [illegible] teams and [illegible] Class A, B and C. [illegible] will be played off. Classes A and B will again take the floor in the semi-finals Mar. 30, if there is enough entered to make three teams and [illegible] Class C will play [illegible] Thursday, Mar. 31 [illegible] division will be held [illegible] April 1.

Ages

There will be [illegible] A, B and C. [illegible] ages of competitors [illegible] Class A will be open to players of 18 years of age or more [illegible] Class B will be open to players of 16 and 17 years of age, and Class C will be open to players of 15 years of age.

During the meeting last night it was agreed that the Lauer Tailors and Midway Lunches of Marion will be barred if they should wish to enter. Three quintets are entered in the meet, [illegible] champs of the Delaware County League and Columbus and Ohio Wesleyan freshmen will battle for the amateur class B title.

Games at Y. M. C. A.

All games will be held on the Y. M. C. A. courts.

Last year a total of 26 teams entered the tournament. This season an even larger number is expected. Many inquiries have been received concerning the date of the tournament and all entry blanks are anxiously awaiting the opening of the meet.

The tournament will ring down the curtain on 1927 basketball in this city.

Trinity Baptist Quintet Enters Findlay Tourney

The Trinity Baptist Intermediate Sunday School League basketball team is preparing for a jaunt to Findlay Saturday, Mar. 12, where it will take part in the annual church league tourney of this district.

The Baptists have been undefeated by another church league team in that class during the last three years. They have won 10 consecutive games so far this season and will probably end the year with a clean slate.

Members of the stellar quintet are Jean Rife and Bob Yazel, guards; Rinehart and Watt Merchant, forwards; Bob Merchant, center, and Bob Chessher, utility man.

The entry blank of the local crew was sent to the management of the tournament a few days ago and has been accepted. It was the plan of the local committee to send the best team in the league to the tournament, no combinations of various players from different teams being allowed.

HARDING CAGERS MEET CENTRAL IN TOURNAMENT

To Face Tough Opponent in First Delaware Battle

At 5:45 this afternoon, Harding High basketeers are to stack up against the toughest team yet to face them on the hardwood court this season. The opponent is Central High of Columbus, and the game will be the first for Harding in the Delaware tournament at Edwards' Gym, Ohio Wesleyan University.

Should the Marion crew turn victory over Central, it will be [illegible] as the "dark horse" of the tourney. If it goes down in defeat, the many heads of the sport world will nod in a cocky "I told you so" manner.

Central, equipped with Bob [illegible] and four other excellent basketeers, is probably the most formidable foe of the Central Ohio District, with the possible exception of Lancaster. Central was tied for first place with South in the Columbus Inter-School cage league this season. Tuttle, forward, was the sensation of the tournament in this district last year.

Last season, Harding High had a great team in the North Central Ohio League but when it journeyed to Delaware it came home immediately after the first game with Delaware High, smarting under a 15 to 12 defeat. This season, Harding High had a rather unsuccessful N. C. O. L. season affair and will go into the tournament with no reputation to lose but with the ambition to get one before it returns to Marion.

The volleyball team captained by Dr. F. V. Murphy was crowned champion of the Business Men's Bowling League Wednesday night, when it defeated Cunningham's crew 32 to 23 in the title battle on the Y. M. C. A. court. Cunningham is given second place.

Brown defeated Hildebrandt's outfit 34 to 15 and stepped into a tie for third place with that crew. Coulter won from Clark and occupies fourth place. Clark's team landed in the cellar.

The games Wednesday night ended the volleyball season for the picked teams. The regular set of volleyballers will go to Columbus, Mar. 12, to compete in the State tournament.

The first part of the season was taken up with the Business Men's League of eight teams. Bob Stief's crew captured the title in that association. Then, when two teams were removed from the league to form the regular squad, a second division of six teams was organized. It closed its season Wednesday.

MARION TEAMS IN CAGE MEET AT COLUMBUS

First Game Will Be Played Wednesday, Mar. 9, on Aguinas Gym Court

The Midways will play the Isaly Dairies in the first round of the Ohio State Journal semi-pro basketball tournament at 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning, Mar. 9, on the Aquinas gym court, Columbus.

This announcement was made today as a result of the drawings for the tourney, held last night in the sport office of the Journal. The Prospect Lauer Tailors drew a bye in the first round.

It will be the first meeting of the year for the two Marion teams and one that will excite almost as much attention among local cage fans as the famous Shovel-Dairy series which closed last night.

The Midways have been playing the preliminary events to all Dairy games and have shown excellent form. They have not had an opportunity of meeting quintets this season which are considered among the leaders in semi-pro circles and hundreds of Marion fans are anxiously awaiting the outcome of their first great game next Wednesday.

The Midways and Dairies have practiced together on various occasions and may possibly even know each other's signals on the floor. Each team is familiar with the same sized floor and neither is noted for any excellent work on a foreign court. The Dairies, by the way, are the present title-holders in semi-pro basketball circles of Central Ohio.

Prospect Tailors will play Circleville Goeller's Clean Sweeps in the first game of the second round, Friday night.

One of his outstanding achievements was the defeat of Kid Kaplan last summer at Boyles Thirty Acres. They will fight at 38 pounds. Honeyboy Finnegan and Johnny Hill will clash on the same card.

Jack Sharkey Stops Mike M'Tigue's Comeback; Bout Goes Twelve Fast Rounds

Sharkey Gets Technical Knockout When Referee Calls Bloody Battle in Twelfth Stanza; Mike Stands Gaff in Fine Shape for Ten Rounds

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Mar. 4—Jack Sharkey, now more than ever a contender in the heavyweight sweepstakes, and that rare old Mike Antique, alias McTigue, put on quite a number for 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden but unfortunately the contest called for 15 and Miracle Mike just didn't have it in him. Referee Kid McPartland stopped the fight in the twelfth round to save the writer from further punishment.

It wasn't a clean knockout. In fact, I found it somewhat dirty. Both Mike and the writer were on their feet at the end, Mike coughing blood and the writer attempting to blot it off a new suit of clothes. In that last round, Sharkey couldn't miss Mike and Mike could miss me. It was quite a party.

The thing was so good, in fact, that many citizens in the rear seemed to think a great injustice had been done and advanced clamoring for blood. They thought Mike had been the winner up to and including the fourth round. The wish, as I saw it, probably is the male parent to the thought, for if ever a man won easily Sharkey did it last night.

However, the appeal of that old man, [illegible] years in the ring before he really got himself an audience, was well nigh irresistible and I don't know as I can blame the addicts for stringing with him. A terrible blank as a performer when he was supposed to be good, he had fought his way back to a point where he was in the biggest money game of them all—the heavyweight racket.

And he had got that far only through the most romantic of mediums, the discovery in middle age of a punch that mowed down Berlenbach, and others.

It just wasn't in the cards for him to beat a man like Sharkey the same way or any other, for Sharkey is the flower of the lot, in the writer's opinion. In addition, he had an advantage of weight of 19 pounds and nobody knows how much in years.

Perhaps Sharkey didn't look the part last night but he virtually had been in retirement with bad hands since the October night he beat Wills and then McTighe is a fighter who will get you an excellent shot at the top of his head. After crossing a few rights to Sharkey's jaw in the early rounds without visible effect, Mike naturally reverted to his bicycle and met nearly every [illegible] with his back turned and going rapidly in the next direction.

The only punch he couldn't get away from was Sharkey's straight left hand [illegible] was all over and one with at that [illegible] and it was a combination of [illegible] and [illegible] that ended the fight. Mike being verbally choked up by the referee [illegible] the superiority of Sharkey. Mike [illegible] about the decision. In fact, he seemed to be looking for an "out" in the previous round when he tried to claim a foul on a punch that landed somewhere near his "adam's apple."

Possible That Gas Hearing May Be Held in Kenton

CITY'S MOTION HEARD TODAY BY COMMISSION

Intimation of Move for Visit Made to Kiwanis by W. T. Johnson

Kenton, Mar. 4—There is a possibility of Kenton's gas rate case being heard by the state public utilities commission sitting in Kenton, should a rehearing be granted the city in Columbus today.

First intimation that such a move might be undertaken here was given by Walter T. Johnson, chairman of the Kiwanis public affairs committee, in speaking before the luncheon meeting of that club yesterday.

During the past several weeks the committee has carefully studied the many angles and denial of the fight being waged to secure lower gas rates here and has rendered its assistance and co-operation to city council, principal figure in the battle.

Citizens Would Know Facts

Relative to a commision hearing in Kenton in event the rehearing of the gas rate case is granted, Chairman Johnson said: "Your committee, as I have stated before, feels that our club should take a lively interest in these questions of general, public interest and concern and proposes to have the hearing held in Kenton so that whatever the outcome citizens of this city will have the opportunity of being present and knowing the facts."

It would be possible to bring the commission to Kenton, according to reports, under a policy said to have been approved by Governor Vic Donahey of having the state commissin hear cases in communities effected if such action is desired and requested.

Hearing Motion Today

Motion of the city for a rehearing of its gas rate case is being heard in Columbus today with a large delegation from both the Kiwanis Club and the Chamber of Commerce attending.

A special committee is to be named by the Kiwanis Club to study the pending case involving increased telephone rates for patrons here. A like committee has been named by the Chamber of Commerce. In brief talks Mr. Johnson, Carl Price and E. H. Sorgen urged that the two organizations unite and co-operate in all public matters of a general nature and importance.

City of Kenton Bedecked in Red and White for Opening of Cage Tournament

KENTON, Mar. 4—Today and Saturday are tournament days in Kenton.

The city, all decked out in red and white, united in welcome to the vanguard of hundreds of cage thrill fans who will attend the twelve sport Classic to determine the championship high school court team in this district of 30 Class A schools.

The tournament this year promises to be one of the greatest ever held in the history of the city. Every team forms a hard problem for coaches to work out as not one of the squads entered can be considered weak.

All Evenly Matched

Of all district basketball meets in the state no tournament can find its teams more evenly matched than those entered here.

Kenton high is slated to open the city's greatest court classic, closing the sport season here. The local cagers will go into action this afternoon against St. Mary's, top-heavy favorites to win. The second game this afternoon will be played between Lima Central and Van Wert.

The evening session will open with St. Rose of Lima, and Ada meeting at 7:30 o'clock. Lima South and Bowling Green play at 9:30.

500 from Lima

Attendance figures for the game series are expected to be shattered with record crowds accompanying out of the city teams. Lima with three teams entered is heading the list with nearly 500 fans. Other cities are sending followers in proportion.

Officials for the tournament have been kept a secret, having been appointed by H. R. Townsend, Columbus, state commissioner of high school athletics. They were to be announced this afternoon as tourney play gets under way. The officials appointed by Commissioner Townsend included the referee, umpires, timers and official scorers.

Rumors of injuries, a bad record and of other things, has kept Kenton fans guessing as to the chances of Coach Robert Burkett's cagers coming through with the championship of the A division in this district. From last minute indications Rubins will be out of the game for both days.

Special sections have been reserved for visiting fans.

NEGATIVE TEAM OF MARYSVILLE DEBATERS WIN

Victory Over Sidney High Orators Given by Two to One Vote

Marysville, Mar. 4—The Marysville High School negative debating team scored its second victory last night when it defeated the strong Sidney affirmative team before a capacity audience in the high school auditorium. The vote however was not unanimous the judges casting one vote in favor of the visitors and two in favor of the locals. The local affirmative team did not debate.

Marysville again gave its strongest points in the rebuttal and it was in doubt even when these were completed which team would be the winner. The decision of the judges came as a surprise to most of those present.

The first speaker of the evening was Ernest Shiveley, the first affirmative speaker of the Sidney team. He set the argument of his team in a very clear manner and it was seen that Marysville would have some difficulty in tearing down his argument. Other speakers of the Sidney team were Bernard Oakley, second affirmative; Floyd Yokes, third affirmative; and William Amos, alternative.

The Marysville team was composed of Robert Smith as the first negative speaker; Fred Zell, second negative; Norma Bown, third negative and Elizabeth Hutson, alternative.

Judge R. L. Cameron was master of ceremonies. The judges were W. R. Ash, of Delaware; A. E. Gower, of Plain City and J. H. Dixon, of Worthington, all superintendents of schools in those cities.

Prospect Basketball Team Scores Victory Over Fast Neate's Chryslers Quintet

"Hoodoo" in Evidence Among Upper Sandusky Players as They Go Down in Defeat by 22-14 Score; Lauers' Defense Strong

Upper Sandusky, Mar. 4—The "hoodoo" of Neates Chryslers basketball team was at its work again last night and for the second time this season on the home floor their slippery fingers and wild shots at the basket lost them the game with the Prospect Lauer Tailors by a 22 to 14 score.

Upper had the ball under their basket fully half the time but the elusive ball could not be induced to drop through the basket. Nor could points be secured on shooting fouls. Out of 12 fouls shot by Upper only two were successful. Four of the field goals made were dropped by Ferner, guard on the Chrysler team, one was made by Weekly and the star basket dropper of the team. Blaser managed a basket one in the game last night.

Effective Guarding

The Prospect team showed up most brilliantly in their effective guarding. They forced Upper to play a defensive game the greater part of the time, snatching the ball with uncanny swiftness and breaking through the majority of Upper's plays. The first half ended 6 to 15 in favor of the visitors.

"Cookie" Lowmiller, graduate of Denison college, officiated at the game and during the half entertained with piano numbers.

Lineups for the game were as follows: Prospect: Annette, rf; Cockwell, lf; Stone, c; Rodman, rg; Sauer, lg.

Upper: Weekly, rf; Blaser, lf; Robbins, c; Zachardy, rg; Ferner, lg.

In the meantime he is held without bail.

Streitenberger was arrested late yesterday by Sheriff Lynch, and returned to Canton last night in custody of Sheriff Edward Gibson of Stark County.

Prosecutor Henry Harter Jr. ordered that the accused man be confined in Canton workhouse stating that he intended to use all means at his disposal to keep Streitenberger away from Louis Mazer, third man indicted for the Mellett slaying, who is now confined in the city jail, being transferred from the workhouse last Wednesday.

Mazer is scheduled to go on trial May 16.

Pat McDermott and Ben Rudner, already convicted on murder charges in connection with the conspiracy, are now serving life terms in the state pen for it.

No one has been permitted to see Streitenberger since his arrest.

Not how much but what kind, the important problem in children's meals

Nowadays children aren't given the unsuitable heavy meals so common years ago. For child health specialists are teaching that the kind of food given is more important for healthful growth than quantity—or even variety.

They are urging the importance of the growth foods . . . those that contain protein in helpful amounts. Quick Mother's Oats with milk, a cup of each a day, supplies nearly one-quarter of the protein needed by a growing child in a day. All the nourishment of the natural whole grain—vitamins and indispensable minerals—are furnished by Quick Mother's Oats with milk. Let your growing children have it often.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes.) Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, redeemable for lamps, silverware, etc.

Movies, Automobiles and Radio Sets Driving County Fair Out of Business

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Mar. 4—Has the country fair outlived its usefulness? Has the automobile, the radio, the movie and other modern attractions forced the country fair into the discard as a means of entertainment throughout rural districts?

From a glance at the annual reports of the 70 fairs in Illinois this would seem to be true.

Of this number 49 fairs show a deficit for the 1926 season. These losses run from $11.70 for the fair at Knoxville to $14,270.93 for the fair at Auroro.

Total receipts of the 70 fairs totalled $1,317,085.61 while their total expenditures totalled $[illegible] 451.95.

To these fairs the state gave $151,183.91 financial aid last year.

Stump School showed me how to make them out of paper—roses, tulips, violets, daisies, buttercups and all the others. I made them out of paper, and that's why I was hurrying to catch up to you to show you my new bouquet. Only you hid away from me."

"I thought you were one of the bad chaps calling to me to wait so you could nibble my ears!" explained the Bunny. "But when I hid in the stump and looked out and saw you—why, then everything was all right."

"I'm glad, cackled Arabella. "And don't you think my flowers are pretty, even if they are funny?"

"Indeed they are," Uncle Wiggily said. "And I'm glad you aren't the Fuzzy Fox because——"

"Well, you don't need to be glad any longer, because here I am!" suddenly barked a voice ,and from around the stump slithered the Fox.

"Oh, oh, dear me!" gasped Uncle Wiggily. He held his paws over his ears but the Fox only laughed and said:

"That will do no good!"

Then Arabella bravely stepped up and said:

"Before you nibble Uncle Wiggily, Mr. Fox, smell my pretty flowers. Smell my roses, tulips and violets! Take a good smell!"

"I will," growled the Fox. "I love flowers, but Uncle Wiggily needn't think, just because I smell the flowers, I'll stop from nibbling his ears. No, sir!"

The Fuzzy Chap took a long sniff of the paper flowers, and of course he couldn't smell any perfume. Then he took another large sniff and when he still smelled nothing he gave a long howl and said:

"Oh I must be catching cold in my head! Oh, I can't smell a thing! How dreadful! I bust hab a terrible cold! Oh, dear me! What shall I do? I guess I'd bedder go!" He even talked as if he had a cold and, fearing he would catch more, away he trotted, shouting back:

"I'll nibble you sub other dibe, Uncle Wiggily!"

"There isn't going to be another time!" chuckled the bunny as he walked along towards home with Arabell and her funny paper flowers. And wasn't it lucky the little chicken girl had them? I think so.

Anyhow, if the automobile doesn't take off its four tires to give to the baby elephant who thinks they're doughnuts, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the spool pig.
